Hall, Woman Plead Guilty To Kidnaping

Confessed Slayers Of Greenlease Boy Face Trial Nov. 16

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3 (AP)—Ex-convict Carl Austin Hall and his alcoholic companion, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, pleaded guilty in federal court today to the kidnaping of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease and were ordered to trial Nov. 16.

Under federal law, even though they pleaded guilty, only a jury can recommend the maximum penalty of death against the pair who confessed the abduction and slaying of the son of multimillionaire Robert C. Greenlease here Sept. 28.

The death penalty is possible because Bobby was lured from a private school in Kansas City, Mo., and taken across the Kansas state line to a wheat field where he was shot to death.

States Await Outcome

State authorities in both Kansas and Missouri are waiting outcome of the federal case. A kidnaping charge on file against the pair in Missouri is punishable by death in the gas chamber. Kansas officials said a murder charge, punishable by hanging, will be filed there if necessary.

Hall, 34, neatly dressed but haggard and worn-looking, shifted nervously on his feet as his attorney, Marshall K. Hoag, entered his formal plea before U.S. District Judge Albert L. Reeves.

Mrs. Heady, 41, St. Joseph, Mo. divorcee, remained motionless and looked straight ahead as her lawyer, Harold Hull, answered for her.

"Cold Blooded" Murder

U.S. Dist. Atty. Edward L. Scheufler opened the brief arraignment by recounting tersely the kidnaping and slaying of little Bobby. The crime, he said, was carefully planned and executed and the boy's life was taken in a "brutal and cold blooded fashion."

Scheufler emphasized that crossing the Kansas-Missouri line fixed federal jurisdiction under the Lindbergh Kidnap Law.

After Bobby was slain, his body was taken to Mrs. Heady's modest home in St. Joseph and buried in the backyard, wrapped in a pastic bag under a covering of lime. Six days later the kidnapers collected $600,000 ransom from the elder Greenlease.

A drunken spending spree in St. Louis brought their arrest Oct. 6 and recovery of half the ransom. Still a mystery is the whereabouts of the other half.

Teeners Carry Out Death Pact

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—A 17-year-old high school girl, a forbidden wedding band on her finger, and a boy she wanted desperately to marry were found shot to death today in an apparent murder-suicide pact.

Beside the bodies, still in a final embrace, was a pencilled suicide note, signed by both, that asked their parents:

"How do you feel now?"

Police said the note indicated the girl was pregnant and that parents of the couple had objected to the marriage.

The girl, Joyce Fulmer, was the daughter of Mrs. Irene Fulmer of Port Jervis. State police Sgt. William Hamblin said her father, Glenn, is separated from her mother.

The boy was Charles W. Jones, also 17, factory worker son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones of Montague Township, N. J.

The bodies were found in Jones' 1950 automobile parked on a little used road near the Port Jervis Country Club.

Embezzlement Trial Jury Is Deadlocked

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—A Federal Court jury tonight twice reported it was "hopelessly deadlocked" in the embezzlement trial of Victor McSherry, former Hagerstown bank teller, but was ordered each time to continue deliberations.

Shortly before 10 p. m. it was still deliberating.

The case went to the jury about 2:35 this afternoon after defense attorney A. Frederick Taylor moved for a mistrial at a morning session and asked Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut for a directed verdict of acquittal. Both motions were denied.

Soviet Spurns Bid For Big 4 Meeting

Russia Demands China's Inclusion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Russia today rebuffed a Western bid for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting on Germany's future and renewed its demand that Red China be brought into the world councils of the great powers.

In a belated response to a proposal that the Big Four foreign ministers meet at Lugano, Switzerland next Monday, Russia told the United States, Britain and France that a conference should be held in two parts—a general session on world tensions including Red China and a session on Germany.

Moscow has taken substantially the same position before in response to Western proposals. Officials here, expressing severe disappointment at the Soviet reply, said the latest note can only be considered an "evasion" of the Western invitation to Lugano.

Dulles Doubts Reds Sincere

A few hours earlier Secretary of State Dulles told his news conference the American government has "reason to fear" the Communists do not now want to have serious talks about any concrete subjects. He said refusal to meet with the Western powers on a German settlement and an Austrian treaty and their "wooden inflexibility" in negotiations for a Korean political conference all appeared to be part of the same pattern of behavior.

All the State Department would say of the note given to American, British and French diplomats in Moscow today was that it was "a long note of 18 pages which has to be translated at our embassy in Moscow and transmitted to Washington."

Soviets Make Two Proposals

"We expect to receive the full text during the night," said press officer Henry Suydam, "and when it is received it will be studied at the highest levels."

From wholly authoritative information based upon a summary of the note received at the State Department it can be reported that the Soviets make two propositions:

First, a Five-Power session including Red China at the foreign minister level and, second, a meeting of Russia and the Western powers (the Big Four) on Germany. Moscow reportedly sticks to its position that negotiations for conclusion of an Austrian treaty should be conducted only in diplomatic channels.

The feeling around the State Department seemed to be that it was too early to say that the Russians had rejected the Lugano proposal.

A-Arms Reduce Danger Of War, Churchill Says

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill declared today the danger of war has lessened because now the Russians—along with the rest of mankind—fear the annihilation an atomic conflict would bring.

In an optimistic review of foreign affairs, the prime minister told the House of Commons he believed the Russian people and their leaders have lost their stomach for aggression.

Churchill held that the fearful nature of atomic weapons—horrors which "cast their shadows on every thoughtful mind"—may force the human race to keep a lasting peace. The 78-year-old prime minister stated:

Queen Opens Parliament

"I do not find it unreasonable or dangerous to conclude that internal prosperity, rather than external conquest, is not only the deep desire of the Russian people but also the long interest of their rulers."

A few hours earlier, Queen Elizabeth II opened a new session of Parliament with pledges that her nation will work constantly for British-American harmony and an "early meeting" of the Big Four powers.

Conservative Plans Outlined

In a bell-like, girlish voice the radiant young queen read from the throne the speech prepared for her by Churchill. It outlined the legislative plans of the Prime Minister's Conservative government. On domestic issues the Queen's speech called for a giant slum clearance program, relaxing of the rent control law and allowing some rent increases to encourage landlords to make repairs, introduction of limited commercial television, continuation of the National Service Act and new studies for reforming the House of Lords.

Churchill stayed away from the state opening to prepare his own speech.

'Bribery' And 'Town Drunk' Spending Hit By Governors

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 3 (AP)—Dixie governors hammered away today at federal "bribery" and "town drunk" spending as a threat to democracy and the rights of states.

But, Gov. Francis Cherry of Arkansas cautioned fellow members of the Southern Governors Conference that it is harder than it sounds for the states to stop encroachment from Washington and take on more services to the people themselves.

There is no assurance, Cherry said, that the states would provide the necessary taxes, even if the federal government turned over some of its revenue sources to the states.

Several governors called upon Washington to give up the federal tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline, along with a federal-aid road building program. They chorused that the states could take care of the roads if they had an exclusive right to tax gasoline.

The issue of federal-state relations was the theme of a round table discussion among the governors during the morning. They kept the afternoon and evening free for golf, relaxation and a chance to follow election returns.

A trio of state executives who backed President Eisenhower, Allan Shivers of Texas, Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana, and Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, spearheaded the attack on what they called "federal infringements" in the past.

Shivers said the "grant-in-aid technique — the great temptation of the matching dollar — has made vast inroads upon state sovereignty" by carrying federal government into nearly every phase of state activity.

"We have allowed ourselves to be bribed with our own money," Shivers complained.

Officials Deny A-Bombs To Be Sent To Spain

Madrid Dispatches Quoting Talbott Hit By Dulles, Wilson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Two cabinet officers declared today the United States has no plans for stockpiling atomic bombs at American air bases in Spain.

The statements came from Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense Wilson.

They followed press reports from Madrid yesterday which quoted Harold E. Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, as saying the Air Force eventually will have supplies of A-bombs at the newly acquired Spanish bases.

Talbott today denied these reports.

They are "not true," he said upon his arrival in Athens, Greece, today. "I never made such a statement, nor will I ever make statements about atomic weapons."

Discussion Necessary

He said that was "a matter to be taken up and discussed between the respective governments."

At least three news organizations —The Associated Press, United Press and New York Times — carried dispatches from Madrid yesterday quoting Talbott as saying U.S. air units in Spain would be supplied with atomic weapons.

The Madrid dispatches quickly created a stir on Capitol Hill and in several other branches of the government. Dulles and Wilson had an early morning session with President Eisenhower at the White House, but they declined to say what was discussed.

Dulles Authorizes Quote

Later at his news conference Dulles was asked about the Spanish situation. He authorized this direct quotation:

"I assume your question is prompted by some press stories from Madrid. I don't know precisely what was said by Secretary Talbott or Gen. Twining (Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force Chief of Staff, who is traveling with Talbott), but I can say this:

"We have no plans for storing atomic weapons in Spain. If and when we have plans for storing atomic weapons, we shall not announce them publicly to the world and to our potential enemy."

Welfare Bureau Director Fired

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The removal of Miss Jane Hoey as director of the Bureau of Public Assistance "so that an administration representative can be selected for this policy making position" was announced today by Secretary of Welfare Hobby.

Miss Hoey has been director of the bureau since 1936. She told reporters she had been offered an opportunity to resign or to take another position in the department but had insisted that she be discharged "to make things clear" if the secretary wanted to appoint someone else to the job. It pays $12,400 a year.

Mrs. Hobby's announcement said Miss Hoey would vacate the job at the secretary's request but emphasized "this action in no way reflected on Miss Hoey's long record of service in both public and private welfare work."

Miss Hoey gave reporters a copy of the letter from Under Secretary Nelson A. Rockefeller which formalized her notice of removal, effective Dec. 1. It said there was an "honest difference between us" over the question of whether the job was a policy-making one.

U. N. Ends Debate On Red Charges U. S. Used Germs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly today concluded debate on Red claims that U.S. airmen waged germ warfare in Korea, without going on record as to their truth or falsity.

U. S. Delegate Henry Ford II said, however, that he hoped the debate had shown "these rightful charges are totally unfounded and false."

The 60-nation Assembly simply referred the records of its debate to its Disarmament Commission where nothing much is expected to happen. The vote was 47-0 with 12 abstentions.

Dionne Quint Enters Convent At Quebec

QUEBEC, Nov. 3 (AP)—Marie Dionne of the 19-year-old Callander quintuplets today entered the cloistered life of a Roman Catholic convent.

Six of the 43 nuns at the Convent of Les Servantes du Tres Saint-Sacrement (Servants of the Blessed Sacrament) welcomed her with the kiss of peace to a life of prayer, silence and contemplation.

Dill Replaces Pickles

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Nov. 3 (AP)—Dubuque residents had a sour chuckle today when they learned the Elmer Pickles are moving from their home.

They all agreed the new tenant is superbly suited to occupy the former Pickle quarters. His name is Richard Dill.

Six Injured As Car Plows Into Crowd

Six pedestrians were injured, three seriously, yesterday when a car driven by a teen-ager struck a police car waiting for a traffic light and plowed into a crowd standing on the corner of a Denver intersection. Police said the car then sheared off a fire alarm box and careened into another auto parked at the curb. Shown are two of the injured.

Doctors Testify In Morals Trial Of Mayor's Son

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP) — The state presented 11 witnesses today in an attempt to prove Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro, 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor, raped a 13-year-old girl last July.

The defense then introduced several witnesses, including a physician who said he examined the girl and found no evidence of assault, before court was adjourned for the day. Young D'Alesandro is to testify tomorrow.

D'Alesandro is one of 14 youths charged with having sex relations with the girl and her 11-year-old cousin during a week they said they spent in a West Preston St. apartment last summer. The older girl is now 14 and the younger 12.

The six defendants who were tried before D'Alesandro were either convicted or pleaded guilty. Seven others are awaiting trial.

The state also produced a doctor to support its charge the girl was assaulted. Dr. Jeanette R. Jeghinin, who said she had been a police department physician for 15 years and had examined "several thousand" children under similar conditions, testified she examined the girl on July 29. She said she found evidence of an old injury which was well healed.

The charge against D'Alesandro is that he assaulted the girl on July 28.

Dr. Erwin Hecker, resident in obstetrics at Sinai Hospital here, testified later that he also had examined the girl. He said he found no physical evidence she had been assaulted.

The question was also raised as to young D'Alesandro's identity in a police lineup.

The older girl said that on Aug. 5 she went with her father to Central District Police Station to identify any persons connected with the case.

It was testified that she looked at six men, including young D'Alesandro, and failed to make identification. The police captain then asked if she knew anybody who looked "like anybody you have seen in the last few days." She then said young D'Alesandro bore such a resemblance.

French Recapture Indochina War Base

HANOI, Indochina, Nov. 3 (AP)—French Union forces lured about 3,000 Vietminh regulars into battle today with a second drive into Phu Nho Quan and the rebel losses were believed to be high. U. S. Vice President Richard Nixon is to look over the combat zone tomorrow.

The French high command said there was heavy hand to hand fighting before the Communist-led Vietminh soldiers finally yielded the war base that the French first occupied and wrecked with little opposition Oct. 23.

The Vietminh were part of the Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's division No. 320. The French have been hoping to engage this division in strength ever since they launched their offensive south of the Red River Delta three weeks ago tomorrow.

Radio And TV Fans Condemn Godfrey For Firing Singer

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The New York Post said today CBS was being flooded with letters from radio-television fans condemning Arthur Godfrey for firing Julius La Rosa.

The Post said there had been "a niagara of letters" critical of Godfrey "with only the merest trickle of support for the big boss of the TV and radio show."

A CBS spokesman insisted, however, there was no preponderance of criticism and reported it apparently "is the normal Godfrey type of mail." But he declined to estimate what percentage of those taking a stand on the firing of La Rosa Oct. 19 was pro-Godfrey and what percentage pro-La Rosa.

Czech Refugees Reach Freedom

BERLIN, Wednesday, Nov. 4 (AP) — Three Czech refugees, one wounded seriously by East German police bullets, have blazed their way here after a four-week flight across the Soviet Zone. They have asked U.S.. authorities for political asylum.

The arrival of the men from behind the Iron Curtain threw light upon an official East German report that "Fascist underground" members killed three German police Oct. 10.

The announcement of the police being killed was followed by a wide manhunt in the southern regions of the Soviet Zone.

The Czechs said they opened fire Oct. 10 when a police patrol stopped them at a small railway station near Luckau about 50 miles south of Berlin. Their bullets chopped three policemen to the ground and chased off others, they reported.

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP)—King Gustav Adolf of Sweden arrived tonight for a three weeks private visit to Britain.

Defiant Chinese Prisoners Meet Red 'Explainers'

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Nov. 4 (AP)—Shouting Chinese anti-Communist prisoners today drowned out Communist loudspeaker broadcasts designed to woo the prisoners back home and then met Red interviewers face to face—noisily but without violence.

The buzzing and shouting of the prisoners could be heard a quarter-mile away.

Double Guard

Indian Maj. Gen. S. P. P. Thorat, commander of the Indian custodian forces, was on hand with a double guard, but there was no sign of trouble among the prisoners.

A few minutes later the Indian guards marched the prisoners to the explanation area, about a quarter of a mile from the holding compound. They went without being forced, and the interviews began 51 minutes later.

This was the first group of Chinese to be interviewed since Oct. 17 and only the third group to be interviewed since the 90-day explanation period began Sept. 26.

Parley Planners Deadlocked

The Indian command revised downward the number undergoing interviews from 427 to 403 and explained that some captives had been removed from the compound Monday after one prisoner was killed by guards.

Not far away from the prisoner explanation center, U.S. envoy Arthur Dean and Chinese Reds and North Korean delegates were locked in dispute over arrangements for a Korean peace conference.

Dean strove to get around Red insistence on inviting Asian neutrals by proposing that they settle tentatively on other details such as time and place. He suggested the peace conference open around Dec. 1. The Reds called his plan "propaganda."

Helen Keller Touches Ike's Face, Calls Smile Wonderful

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Blind Helen Keller put her hands on President Eisenhower's face today and told him: "You have a wonderful smile."

Miss Keller, 73, has been blind and deaf since an illness when she was 19 months old. For years she was unable to speak, but later learned to talk to some extent.

She was accompanied to the White House from New York by her companion of 39 years, Miss Polly Thompson, who communicates with Miss Keller through a "touch" alphabet.

Describing her visit with Eisenhower, Miss Keller told newsmen:

"It was a very interesting moment. He (the president) is one of the great forces that have made the world safer for freedom.

"I asked him if I might touch his face and feel the wonderful smile I had heard so much about. He very kindly allowed me to do so, and it was just as I have heard.

"I felt a fine face. I felt the courage and the thought that has carried him through such great years in the world's history."

Miss Keller said she had never met Eisenhower before, but that the President, in greeting her, declared he was glad to see her again.

The White House visit was no new experience for Miss Keller. She said she also had met Presidents Cleveland, Taft, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Republicans Trail In Two Jersey Races

Wagner Is Elected New York's Mayor; N. J. Upset Looms

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 3 (INS) — Democrat Robert B. Meyner won a stunning upset victory tonight in the nationally-important New Jersey gubernatorial election.

With three-fifths of the state's district reported, Meyner had a 145,000-vote lead over Republican Paul L. Troast. Troast could not possibly make up the deficit in returns from the remaining districts.

[By The Associated Press]

Democrat Robert F. Wagner Jr., son of the late New Deal Senator, bowled over two opponents easily to win the New York mayoralty last night He pledged his administration to a program of "courage, morality and decency."

Harold Riegelman, his Republican opponent, conceded defeat at 9:40 p.m. (EST). Rudolph Halley, Liberal party candidate who ran third, conceded at 9:18 p.m.

It was the first important race to be decided in yesterday's off-year state and municipal elections.

Wagner's election had been forecast.

In Virginia, the Democrats won the governorship, also as expected, but by a much closer vote than in previous years. Thomas B. Stanley (D), backed by the Byrd organization, defeated Ted Dalton (R). The vote in 1321 of 1815 precincts was: Stanley 128,865; Dalton 93,955.

In New Jersey, where the Republicans have held the governorship for 10 years, Democrat Robert B. Meyner leaped into a 50,000 vote lead over Republican Paul L. Troast in the first 1½ hours of vote counting.

Early returns from the special House election in New Jersey's 6th District also showed the Democrat, Harrison A. JWilliams Jr., ahead of Republican George F. Hetfield with about a fifth of the districts in.

In other races the Democrats staged a comeback in some of Connecticut's mayoral contests. They ousted a Republican mayor in New Haven for their biggest advance.

Republican Pratt C. Remmel won his second term as mayor of Little Rock, Ark. Two years ago he became this southern city's first GOP mayor in more than 60 years.

A Democrat won the mayoralty of Buffalo ending eight years of Republican administration. Albany re-elected a Democrat, but in Oneida, a Central New York community, a Republican ousted a Democratic incumbent.

First mayoral election to be decided was in Bridgeport, Conn., where Socialist Jasper McLevy, 75, easily won an 11th term over two opponents.

Americans In UN Cleared By Probe

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said today a million dollar U.S. loyalty probe—now almost 80 per cent completed—has turned up no evidence against any American citizens now employed by the United Nations.

The U.S. government ordered the investigation of 1,700 Americans on the U.N. staff last January after a score of them refused to answer Congressional queries about Communist ties. All those who refused were fired before the probe began.

The U.N. has so far received the results of 1,300 separate FBI-conducted investigations. More are coming in every day but high sources said they did not expect the remaining to contain any information reflecting on the loyalty of those checked.

No Decision Made Yet On Hiking Draft Calls

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said today no decision has been made yet on increasing the Army's monthly draft calls, which have been running 23,000 for some months.

The matter came up at Wilson's news conference when he was asked whether the Army had formally recommended upping the calls to 37,000 a month. That figure has been used widely in speculation on the Army's future manpower needs.

Officials Deny A-Bombs To Be Sent To Spain

Madrid Dispatches Quoting Talbott Hit By Dulles, Wilson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Two cabinet officers declared today the United States has no plans for stockpiling atomic bombs at American air bases in Spain.

The statements came from Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense Wilson.

They followed press reports from Madrid yesterday which quoted Harold E. Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, as saying the Air Force eventually will have supplies of A-bombs at the newly acquired Spanish bases.

Talbott today denied these reports.

They are "not true," he said upon his arrival in Athens, Greece, today. "I never made such a statement, nor will I ever make statements about atomic weapons."

Discussion Necessary

He said that was "a matter to be taken up and discussed between the respective governments."

At least three news organizations —The Associated Press, United Press and New York Times — carried dispatches from Madrid yesterday quoting Talbott as saying U.S. air units in Spain would be supplied with atomic weapons.

The Madrid dispatches quickly created a stir on Capitol Hill and in several other branches of the government. Dulles and Wilson had an early morning session with President Eisenhower at the White House, but they declined to say what was discussed.

Dulles Authorizes Quote

Later at his news conference Dulles was asked about the Spanish situation. He authorized this direct quotation:

"I assume your question is prompted by some press stories from Madrid. I don't know precisely what was said by Secretary Talbott or Gen. Twining (Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force Chief of Staff, who is traveling with Talbott), but I can say this:

"We have no plans for storing atomic weapons in Spain. If and when we have plans for storing atomic weapons, we shall not announce them publicly to the world and to our potential enemy."

Welfare Bureau Director Fired

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The removal of Miss Jane Hoey as director of the Bureau of Public Assistance "so that an administration representative can be selected for this policy making position" was announced today by Secretary of Welfare Hobby.

Miss Hoey has been director of the bureau since 1936. She told reporters she had been offered an opportunity to resign or to take another position in the department but had insisted that she be discharged "to make things clear" if the secretary wanted to appoint someone else to the job. It pays $12,400 a year.

Mrs. Hobby's announcement said Miss Hoey would vacate the job at the secretary's request but emphasized "this action in no way reflected on Miss Hoey's long record of service in both public and private welfare work."

Miss Hoey gave reporters a copy of the letter from Under Secretary Nelson A. Rockefeller which formalized her notice of removal, effective Dec. 1. It said there was an "honest difference between us" over the question of whether the job was a policy-making one.

U. N. Ends Debate On Red Charges U. S. Used Germs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly today concluded debate on Red claims that U.S. airmen waged germ warfare in Korea, without going on record as to their truth or falsity.

U. S. Delegate Henry Ford II said, however, that he hoped the debate had shown "these rightful charges are totally unfounded and false."

The 60-nation Assembly simply referred the records of its debate to its Disarmament Commission where nothing much is expected to happen. The vote was 47-0 with 12 abstentions.

Dionne Quint Enters Convent At Quebec

QUEBEC, Nov. 3 (AP)—Marie Dionne of the 19-year-old Callander quintuplets today entered the cloistered life of a Roman Catholic convent.

Six of the 43 nuns at the Convent of Les Servantes du Tres Saint-Sacrement (Servants of the Blessed Sacrament) welcomed her with the kiss of peace to a life of prayer, silence and contemplation.

Dill Replaces Pickles

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Nov. 3 (AP)—Dubuque residents had a sour chuckle today when they learned the Elmer Pickles are moving from their home.

They all agreed the new tenant is superbly suited to occupy the former Pickle quarters. His name is Richard Dill.

Six Injured As Car Plows Into Crowd

Six pedestrians were injured, three seriously, yesterday when a car driven by a teen-ager struck a police car waiting for a traffic light and plowed into a crowd standing on the corner of a Denver intersection. Police said the car then sheared off a fire alarm box and careened into another auto parked at the curb. Shown are two of the injured.

Doctors Testify In Morals Trial Of Mayor's Son

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP) — The state presented 11 witnesses today in an attempt to prove Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro, 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor, raped a 13-year-old girl last July.

The defense then introduced several witnesses, including a physician who said he examined the girl and found no evidence of assault, before court was adjourned for the day. Young D'Alesandro is to testify tomorrow.

D'Alesandro is one of 14 youths charged with having sex relations with the girl and her 11-year-old cousin during a week they said they spent in a West Preston St. apartment last summer. The older girl is now 14 and the younger 12.

The six defendants who were tried before D'Alesandro were either convicted or pleaded guilty. Seven others are awaiting trial.

The state also produced a doctor to support its charge the girl was assaulted. Dr. Jeanette R. Jeghinin, who said she had been a police department physician for 15 years and had examined "several thousand" children under similar conditions, testified she examined the girl on July 29. She said she found evidence of an old injury which was well healed.

The charge against D'Alesandro is that he assaulted the girl on July 28.

Dr. Erwin Hecker, resident in obstetrics at Sinai Hospital here, testified later that he also had examined the girl. He said he found no physical evidence she had been assaulted.

The question was also raised as to young D'Alesandro's identity in a police lineup.

The older girl said that on Aug. 5 she went with her father to Central District Police Station to identify any persons connected with the case.

It was testified that she looked at six men, including young D'Alesandro, and failed to make identification. The police captain then asked if she knew anybody who looked "like anybody you have seen in the last few days." She then said young D'Alesandro bore such a resemblance.

French Recapture Indochina War Base

HANOI, Indochina, Nov. 3 (AP)—French Union forces lured about 3,000 Vietminh regulars into battle today with a second drive into Phu Nho Quan and the rebel losses were believed to be high. U. S. Vice President Richard Nixon is to look over the combat zone tomorrow.

The French high command said there was heavy hand to hand fighting before the Communist-led Vietminh soldiers finally yielded the war base that the French first occupied and wrecked with little opposition Oct. 23.

The Vietminh were part of the Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's division No. 320. The French have been hoping to engage this division in strength ever since they launched their offensive south of the Red River Delta three weeks ago tomorrow.

Radio And TV Fans Condemn Godfrey For Firing Singer

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The New York Post said today CBS was being flooded with letters from radio-television fans condemning Arthur Godfrey for firing Julius La Rosa.

The Post said there had been "a niagara of letters" critical of Godfrey "with only the merest trickle of support for the big boss of the TV and radio show."

A CBS spokesman insisted, however, there was no preponderance of criticism and reported it apparently "is the normal Godfrey type of mail." But he declined to estimate what percentage of those taking a stand on the firing of La Rosa Oct. 19 was pro-Godfrey and what percentage pro-La Rosa.

Czech Refugees Reach Freedom

BERLIN, Wednesday, Nov. 4 (AP) — Three Czech refugees, one wounded seriously by East German police bullets, have blazed their way here after a four-week flight across the Soviet Zone. They have asked U.S.. authorities for political asylum.

The arrival of the men from behind the Iron Curtain threw light upon an official East German report that "Fascist underground" members killed three German police Oct. 10.

The announcement of the police being killed was followed by a wide manhunt in the southern regions of the Soviet Zone.

The Czechs said they opened fire Oct. 10 when a police patrol stopped them at a small railway station near Luckau about 50 miles south of Berlin. Their bullets chopped three policemen to the ground and chased off others, they reported.

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP)—King Gustav Adolf of Sweden arrived tonight for a three weeks private visit to Britain.

Defiant Chinese Prisoners Meet Red 'Explainers'

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Nov. 4 (AP)—Shouting Chinese anti-Communist prisoners today drowned out Communist loudspeaker broadcasts designed to woo the prisoners back home and then met Red interviewers face to face—noisily but without violence.

The buzzing and shouting of the prisoners could be heard a quarter-mile away.

Double Guard

Indian Maj. Gen. S. P. P. Thorat, commander of the Indian custodian forces, was on hand with a double guard, but there was no sign of trouble among the prisoners.

A few minutes later the Indian guards marched the prisoners to the explanation area, about a quarter of a mile from the holding compound. They went without being forced, and the interviews began 51 minutes later.

This was the first group of Chinese to be interviewed since Oct. 17 and only the third group to be interviewed since the 90-day explanation period began Sept. 26.

Parley Planners Deadlocked

The Indian command revised downward the number undergoing interviews from 427 to 403 and explained that some captives had been removed from the compound Monday after one prisoner was killed by guards.

Not far away from the prisoner explanation center, U.S. envoy Arthur Dean and Chinese Reds and North Korean delegates were locked in dispute over arrangements for a Korean peace conference.

Dean strove to get around Red insistence on inviting Asian neutrals by proposing that they settle tentatively on other details such as time and place. He suggested the peace conference open around Dec. 1. The Reds called his plan "propaganda."

Helen Keller Touches Ike's Face, Calls Smile Wonderful

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Blind Helen Keller put her hands on President Eisenhower's face today and told him: "You have a wonderful smile."

Miss Keller, 73, has been blind and deaf since an illness when she was 19 months old. For years she was unable to speak, but later learned to talk to some extent.

She was accompanied to the White House from New York by her companion of 39 years, Miss Polly Thompson, who communicates with Miss Keller through a "touch" alphabet.

Describing her visit with Eisenhower, Miss Keller told newsmen:

"It was a very interesting moment. He (the president) is one of the great forces that have made the world safer for freedom.

"I asked him if I might touch his face and feel the wonderful smile I had heard so much about. He very kindly allowed me to do so, and it was just as I have heard.

"I felt a fine face. I felt the courage and the thought that has carried him through such great years in the world's history."

Miss Keller said she had never met Eisenhower before, but that the President, in greeting her, declared he was glad to see her again.

The White House visit was no new experience for Miss Keller. She said she also had met Presidents Cleveland, Taft, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Republicans Trail In Two Jersey Races

Wagner Is Elected New York's Mayor; N. J. Upset Looms

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 3 (INS) — Democrat Robert B. Meyner won a stunning upset victory tonight in the nationally-important New Jersey gubernatorial election.

With three-fifths of the state's district reported, Meyner had a 145,000-vote lead over Republican Paul L. Troast. Troast could not possibly make up the deficit in returns from the remaining districts.

[By The Associated Press]

Democrat Robert F. Wagner Jr., son of the late New Deal Senator, bowled over two opponents easily to win the New York mayoralty last night He pledged his administration to a program of "courage, morality and decency."

Harold Riegelman, his Republican opponent, conceded defeat at 9:40 p.m. (EST). Rudolph Halley, Liberal party candidate who ran third, conceded at 9:18 p.m.

It was the first important race to be decided in yesterday's off-year state and municipal elections.

Wagner's election had been forecast.

In Virginia, the Democrats won the governorship, also as expected, but by a much closer vote than in previous years. Thomas B. Stanley (D), backed by the Byrd organization, defeated Ted Dalton (R). The vote in 1321 of 1815 precincts was: Stanley 128,865; Dalton 93,955.

In New Jersey, where the Republicans have held the governorship for 10 years, Democrat Robert B. Meyner leaped into a 50,000 vote lead over Republican Paul L. Troast in the first 1½ hours of vote counting.

Early returns from the special House election in New Jersey's 6th District also showed the Democrat, Harrison A. JWilliams Jr., ahead of Republican George F. Hetfield with about a fifth of the districts in.

In other races the Democrats staged a comeback in some of Connecticut's mayoral contests. They ousted a Republican mayor in New Haven for their biggest advance.

Republican Pratt C. Remmel won his second term as mayor of Little Rock, Ark. Two years ago he became this southern city's first GOP mayor in more than 60 years.

A Democrat won the mayoralty of Buffalo ending eight years of Republican administration. Albany re-elected a Democrat, but in Oneida, a Central New York community, a Republican ousted a Democratic incumbent.

First mayoral election to be decided was in Bridgeport, Conn., where Socialist Jasper McLevy, 75, easily won an 11th term over two opponents.

Americans In UN Cleared By Probe

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said today a million dollar U.S. loyalty probe—now almost 80 per cent completed—has turned up no evidence against any American citizens now employed by the United Nations.

The U.S. government ordered the investigation of 1,700 Americans on the U.N. staff last January after a score of them refused to answer Congressional queries about Communist ties. All those who refused were fired before the probe began.

The U.N. has so far received the results of 1,300 separate FBI-conducted investigations. More are coming in every day but high sources said they did not expect the remaining to contain any information reflecting on the loyalty of those checked.

No Decision Made Yet On Hiking Draft Calls

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said today no decision has been made yet on increasing the Army's monthly draft calls, which have been running 23,000 for some months.

The matter came up at Wilson's news conference when he was asked whether the Army had formally recommended upping the calls to 37,000 a month. That figure has been used widely in speculation on the Army's future manpower needs.

UN Won't Tackle Morocco Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—The colonial powers won a major victory in the U.N. today by beating down an Arab-Asian demand for the Assembly to intervene in the French-Moroccan dispute.

The Assembly killed the main section of a resolution stating that the Assembly "renews its appeal for the reduction of tension in Morocco and urges that the right of the people of Morocco to free democratic political institutions be insured." This received a vote of 32 in favor and 22 opposed, but it lacked the two-thirds margin for passage.

The United States joined the colonial powers and most of the Latin American countries in voting against that paragraph.

France, which boycotted the Moroccan debate, and the other colonial powers have been fighting for years against moves by Arabs and Asian and other countries in the U.N. for the organization to interest itself in what the colonial countries call domestic affairs.

The Moroccan case first came up last year. The Assembly approved a resolution urging France to do its best to reach an agreement with the Moroccans. The Arabs and Asians charged the French ignored that Assembly decision and renewed this year their demands for U. N. interventions and Moroccan independence.

The Assembly in another decision on a long standing case called upon all countries that have not already done so to ratify the genocide convention without delay. The vote was 50-0, with 1 abstaining. The United States voted for this action, although Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegates, said the vote did not commit the U. S. Senate to favorable action on ratifying the convention.

Rosenberg Case Figure Working In Radar Plant

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today a man believed to be Abraham Brothman, who served a prison term in the Rosenberg atom spy case, is now free and working in a radar plant.

But an official of the factory involved said it was not a radar plant, makes nothing having to do with radar equipment and never has.

The plant's main work, the official said, is making connectors for gas stoves.

The Senator, chairman of the Senate permanent investigations sub-committee, announced that the man believed to be Brothman, will be called as a witness before the subcommittee tomorrow.

Said McCarthy:

"The moment we heard that Brothman was free and working in a radar plant, we called the plant, the Techni-Flex Co. in Port Jervis, N. Y., and one of his superiors there said that the Brothman employed in the plant was the same Brothman who had served a sentence on a conspiracy charge."

Atom spy Harry Gold has given statements to Senate investigators in which he portrayed Brothman as a member of a Soviet spy ring of a decade ago.

Brothman was sentenced to seven years in prison in 1950 for conspiring to obstruct justice by getting Gold to lie to a 1947 federal grand jury investigating espionage.

Later, the U. S. Court of Appeals reversed a portion of Brothman's conviction and cut his prison term to two years.

Shoulders Is Looking For Work In Hawaii

HONOLULU, Nov. 3 (AP)—Louis Shoulders, the former St. Louis police lieutenant who cracked the Bobby Greenlease kidnaping case, said today he is looking for work in Hawaii.

"I've got to go back to work," he told a Honolulu Star-Bulletin reporter on the island of Maui where he is taking a rest. "I don't have the money to stay idle."

He said he had received "several good offers" on the mainland but "I wish I could find an offer to live here, particularly in Honolulu."

Shoulders resigned from the St. Louis police force after a police board inquiry looked into the arrest of the kidnapers, Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady.

Cost Of Defense

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Secretary Wilson released an estimate today that defense spending may run 42 billion dollars, perhaps 42½ in this fiscal year ending next June 30.

AMA Takes Slap At Dentifrice Ads

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—The American Dental Assn. said today it knows of no satisfactory evidence that any dentifrice now on the market will actually prevent tooth decay.

In a slap at what it called "sensational advertising claims" being made for dentifrices containing such substances as chlorophyllin derivatives, anti-enzyme chemicals and ammonia-containing compounds, Dr. Harold Hillenbrand, ADA secretary, said:

"It is unfortunate that a few dental research scientists have permitted inconclusive or incomplete research reports to be used by commercial interests to mislead the general public into believing that a certain product contains substances that will prevent tooth decay."

German, Dutch Scientists Win '53 Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 3 (AP)—A German chemist who gave a boost to the plastics industry and a Dutch physicist-microscopist are winners of the 1953 Nobel prizes in chemistry and physics, a Swedish newspapaer said today.

On the eve of the official announcement of the $33,840 awards, Stockholm's Aftontidnigen reported the chemistry prize will go to Dr. Hermann Staudinger of Freiburg, West Germany, and the physics prize to Dr. Frederik Zernike of Groningen, the Netherlands.

Members of the Swedish Academy of Science, which makes the awards under the will of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite, refused to confirm or deny this account.

Dr. Staudinger, 72, who heads the Research Institute for Macromolecular Chemistry in Freiburg, is a world authority on giant molecules. He is credited by scientists here with having laid the scientific foundation for the modern plastics industry.

The giant molecules make up all substances produced by the plastics industry and a number of vital organic substances, such as proteins and carbohydrates.

Dr. Zernike is an outstanding expert and inventor in the field of microscopy.

Crowd Defends Three Italians In Holohan Case

NOVARA, Italy, Nov. 3 (AP)—A jammed court room clamored today for acquittal of three Italians on trial in the wartime cloak-and-dagger murder of U. S. Maj. William Holohan.

The crowd shouted "let the Italians free" after hearing a defense lawyer criticize the United States for what he called a grave error in failing to turn over two American co-defendants to Italy.

Ex-Lt. Aldo Icardi of Pittsburgh and ex-Sgt. Carl Lo Dolce of Rochester, N. Y., are on trial in absentia for the slaying of Holohan behind the Axis lines in north Italy in 1944. Holohan objected to giving American money and arms to Communists among the pro-Allied guerrillas in the region. Witnesses have testified the Communists got more after Holohan's death.

Icardi is accused of engineering the slaying and Lo Dolce is charged with firing two fatal shots. U. S. federal courts refused to extradite them. The Italians are Aminta Migliari, Giuseppe Mannini and Gualtiero Tozzini. All former partisans and members of Holohan's intelligence mission, they are accused of participating in the murder.

State Council Won't Enter Baltimore Probe

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP) — Sen. George W. Della, chairman of the Legislative Council, tonight called a halt to council plans to enter Baltimore's off-street parking investigation.

He said the council might get into the matter at some later time but that some of his colleagues felt that it might now be interfering with work of a grand jury which has been studying the matter.

The Senate president said he himself had come to feel that way, too.

Della announced last week that he would name a special council subcommittee to look into the complaint of an attorney concerning the role of James F. Price, assistant state's attorney and son of City Council President Arthur B. Price, in the investigation.

Presbyterian Leaders Declare Subtle Assault On Human Rights In Progress

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP) — The governing body of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. declared yesterday that "a subtle but potent assault upon basic human rights is now in progress" in America.

Moreover, the church charged, "loyalty to truth" is being sacrificed for propaganda purposes.

In what was described as an extraordinary action, the denomination's General Council sent to its 8,000 pastors and 2½ million members a soberly worded letter on contemporary affairs, asserting:

"Dangerous developments are taking place in our national life. . . . The shrine of conscience and private judgment, which God alone has a right to enter, is being invaded."

The letter charged that a "cynical attitude" in official circles was discouraging attempts to settle world tensions by negotiation, and that congressional inquiries have tended to "become inquisitions."

"These inquisitions, which find their historic pattern in medieval Spain and in the tribunals of modern totalitarian states, begin to constitute a threat to freedom of thought in this country," the letter said.

It was released at a news conference by Dr. John A. MacKay, church moderator and president of Princeton Theological Seminary, and Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, stated clerk of the church.

Dr. MacKay said that not in "many, many years" had the General Council issued a pronouncement of such broad scope, but that it had been done in this case because of the present "exceedingly grave" situation.

While describing the "menace of communism" as a serious one, the letter said the threat was being used to incite unhealthy fears and suspicions, to suppress dissent, and to smear good citizens.

Still "more serious," the letter said, is that many people, in and out of government, try to deal with communism in a "purely negative way" — merely as a "police problem" — with no "constructive program of action."

"This fanatical negativism is in danger of leading the American mind into a spiritual vacuum," the letter said. "In the case of a national crisis this emptiness could, in the high-sounding name of security, be occupied with ease by a Fascist tyranny."

Declaring that the church is duty bound to "draw attention to violations of those spiritual bases of human relationship which have been established by God," the letter said the truth itself is under attack.

"Despite the lofty idealism of many of our national leaders, truth is being subtly and silently dethroned by prominent public figures," the letter said.

It attributed this to the "cold war" in which "falsehood is frequently preferred to fact if it can be shown to have greater propaganda value," and added:

"The demagogue who lives by propaganda is coming into his own on a national scale. According to the new philosophy, if what is true gives 'aid and comfort' to our enemy, it must be suppressed. Truth is thus a captive in the land of the free."

The "terrifying moral consequences" of this, the letter said, are illustrated in methods which permit citizens to be "publicly condemned upon the uncorroborated word of former Communists."

Many of these witnesses, the letter said, have only shifted to new authoritarian views, but congressional committees "give unqualified credence" to such people who hold that "a lie in a good cause is thoroughly justified."

Concerning Russian-American relations, the letter referred to the gether" to solve disputes, and said:

"Let us beware of the cynical attitude which prevails in certain official circles to regard as forlorn hope any negotiated solution of the major issues which divide mankind . . . We should take the risk, and even the initiative, of seeking face-to-face encounter with our enemies."

State Opposes Youth's Release

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Maryland authorities went before the court of appeals today seeking overthrow of a decision which released a youth from prison where he had been sent for escaping from boys village last year.

The youth, Wallace Calman, first was sent to Boys Village of Maryland in June, 1951, for delinquency by a Baltimore juvenile court. The next year, at the age of 15, he escaped and was apprehended.

He was found guilty of an escape charge and sentenced to five years in the Maryland House of Correction by a Prince George's County Circuit Court. He later was transferred to the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

He was released on a writ of habeas corpus in a Baltimore city court which ruled that the escape laws do not apply to male minors confined in Boys Village.

The lower court found the conviction for escape was an unconstitutional depravation of his liberty.

Deaf Mute Uses Sign Language To Save Her Son

WINNIPEG, Nov. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Frank Bealer, a deaf mute, used sign language today to save her 3-year-old son from suffocating.

Smoke from a fire which broke out in her home drove the mother out before she could reach the child who was asleep in a bedroom.

Neighbors called firemen, but Mrs. Bealer was unable to tell them the child was trapped. Then she pretended she was rocking a baby and pointed inside. She motioned for a pencil and wrote: "Boy upstairs—Teddy."

Firefighters broke into the bedroom and found the boy unconscious under a bed. He regained consciousness in a hospital.

Baltimore Jury Quizzes Officials

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Baltimore's director of public works, Paul L. Holland, went before the grand jury today to testify in connection with a proposal to investigate the city administration.

Holland was the first of a group from the Board of Estimates slated to appear before the grand jury which recently heard a suggestion from local attorney Hyman Pressman that the entire city administration be investigated.

The board itself recently voted 3-1 to turn down Pressman's request that it appropriate $50,000 for the probe.

Mayor D'Alesandro then asked the Commission on Governmental Efficiency and Economy to make the city study, but the group declined. It was pointed out at the time that that body had no powers to subpoena witnesses or return criminal charges.

Pressman claims there is evidence of waste and corruption in city contracts for paving and other projects. It was Pressman's criticism that touched off the Off-Street Parking probe which resulted in the indictment of City Comptroller J. Neil McCardell, contractor Dominic Piracci and others.

Allen L. Dell, deputy city Comptroller and clerk to the Board of Estimates, also appeared before the grand jury today.

Scheduled to testify tomorrow are Mayor D'Alesandro, City Solicitor Thomas N. Biddison and Arthur B. Price, president of the city council.

Tax Dodger Fined

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 3 (AP)—Lasure Smith McGee, Shinnston, W. Va., coal man, was fined $10,000 and put on probation for three years yesterday on an income tax evasion charge.

He previously pleaded guilty to evading about $55,000 in taxes for 1947.

McKeldin Draws Attorney's Fire

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP) — A member of the Maryland school board charged today that Gov. McKeldin is trying to take all the credit for the state's school building program which was really originated by former Gov. William Preston Lane.

Richard W. Case, Baltimore attorney and member of the board, referred to a speech McKeldin made yesterday before the Southern Governor's Conference at Atlanta.

McKeldin noted that the program in which the state lends money to local units to build schools, already had provided 51 million dollars for new construction and a credit pool of another 19 million.

Case was author of the 1949 legislation which created the then-revolutionary Maryland system of financing school construction.

Case commended the governor for explaining the program to his Southern colleagues but said he felt McKeldin should have mentioned that it was the brainchild of Lane, McKeldin's Democratic predecessor.

He said he also was gratified to note McKeldin's acceptance of the Lane program.

Baltimore Firm Low Road Project Bidder

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP) — The State Roads Commission said today Williams Construction Co. Inc. of Baltimore was the low bidder on a Baltimore County roads construction project.

The firm's bid of $1,484,063 was lowest of seven which ran to a high of $1,892,299.

The job calls for surfacing and other work on a section 1.385 miles long beginning at Joppa Road and extending east to the Northern Central branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Appointed To Council

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—State Sen. Louis T. Hofferbert (D-Balto 6th) was appointed today as a member of the Legislative Council, filling the vacancy created last week by the death of Sen. Omar Crothers (D-Cecil).

$20,000 Insurance Asked To Destroy Ailing Race Horse

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Ann H. Uhlar of Baltimore today filed a suit in Superior Court seeking an order that her three-year-old race horse be destroyed to relieve it from pain and that a $20,000 life insurance policy on the animal be paid.

The colt, Ann's Love, sired by Alaking out of Evening Shot, suffered a fracture of the inside sesamoid bone of the left foreleg, it was alleged.

The suit said a veterinarian termed the condition hopeless and the horse should be destroyed. The insurance company veterinarian has prescribed treatment, but the condition is unimproved, the suit alleges.

The proceeding was brought against Lloyds of London and Oakeley, Vaughan & Johnston, Inc. insurance underwriters.

The policy, taken out last December at a premium of $850, calls for payment of $20,000 in case of death from natural causes, illness, disease or accident.

Baltimore Overpass Opened To Traffic

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Baltimore's three million dollar connection to the Washington-Baltimore expressway was formally opened to traffic today.

Deputy Director of Public Works George A. Carter, substituting for Mayor D'Alesandro, snipped a ribbon stretched across the Russell Street overpass.

The viaduct carries traffic on a six - lane throughway through a crowded section of Southwest Baltimore and across the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, connecting with the dual-lane expressway on its southern end.

Battlefield Closed To Visitors At Night

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 3 (AP)—The superintendent of Antietam Battlefield said today that visitors are welcome during the day, but "they are up to no good when they travel the (battlefield) roads at night."

Superintendent Harry Doust said anybody found on the reservation after dark would be prosecuted for trespassing. He said the partial ban on visitors was the result of an attempt last week to dynamite the observation tower at the battlefield.

Communism And Trade Unions

The forthcoming congressional investigation of Communists in trade unions will be concentrated on unions whose "strategic positions" pose a "continuing threat to our national security," according to Senator John Marshall Butler (R., Md.) head of a Senate Internal Security subcommittee which will initiate open hearings early this month.

Butler has specifically mentioned the American Communications Association, the United Electrical Workers of America, and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, all of which have been expelled from the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO). The IUMMSW operates in vital uranium mines and heavy-water plants in Canada.

Meantime, the National Labor Relations Board on October 24 announced a new policy on unions whose officers are under indictment for allegedly giving false information in non-Communist oaths under the Taft-Hartley Act. The board will withhold action on petitions for representation elections filed by such unions — unless another union is involved or delay would prejudice the interests of the employer.

Moreover, should a union with indicted officers win a representation election, the board will not certify the union pending the outcome of court proceedings. The board said it would draw "no inference of guilt from issuance of the indictments."

A federal court in Washington had on January 27 permanently enjoined the NLRB from ordering union officials to reaffirm non-Communist affidavits they had once filed under Taft-Hartley. The decision came on an action brought by 11 officers of the ACA, the UEW, and the International Fur and Leather Workers against NLRB orders to swear that affidavits they had filed for previous years were true and that they had not been Communist supporters since signing.

Ben Gold, president of the IFLW, was indicted for perjury by a federal grand jury last August 28 in connection with an affidavit filed on August 29, 1950. Affiliates of Gold had said that he had resigned from the Communist party the day before making the affidavit. Hugh Bryson, president of the National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards, was indicted in similar circumstances on October 12. Indictments are outstanding against officers of local unions, and the Department of Justice has announced that it is studying affidavits of more than 500 union officers.

Chairman Farmer of the NLRB on October 22 called for new legislation giving the government power to deal with situations wherein a union's nominal officers file non-Communist oaths but control of the union is vested in other persons not required to take the oath.

But the House Un-American Activities Committee on December 27 last had recommended that Congress repeal the Taft-Hartley oath requirement. The committee pointed out that union officers who are Communists could quit the party for a day, sign the pledge, and rejoin the next day. The committee interpretation stemmed from a U. S. Supreme Court ruling of May 8, 1950, which otherwise upheld the validity of the non-Communist affidavit requirement.

The Spirit Runs Deep

Among men free to consider the evidence and to arrive at a verdict, the Chinese Communists and their Russian teachers must from now on stand convicted of crimes never before committed in human history. The race of men at various times in the ascent from savagery has practiced cannibalism, human sacrifice, wholesale torture.

It remained for Communists to destroy the souls of their captives for the sake of political advantage.

These are factual statements, not charges. They were fully supported in the address made to the Political and Security Committee of the U.N. General Assembly by Dr. Charles W. Mayo of the United States delegation.

In reply to Russian and Red Chinese accusations that American forces resorted to germ warfare in Korea, he proved that the so-called "confessions" by American airmen had been extorted by scientific methods deliberately designed to crush the spirits of these prisoners. Physical torture was only part of this process.

The total picture, Dr. Mayo said, "is one of human beings being reduced to a status lower than that of animals: filthy, full of lice, festered wounds full of maggots; their sickness regulated to a point just short of death; unshaven, without haircuts or baths for as much as a year . . . isolated, faced by squads of trained interrogators, bullied incessantly, deprived of sleep and browbeaten into mental anguish."

This was not senseless brutality. It was, in fact, coldly calculated. Dr. Mayo noted how the Russian biologist Pavlov had created a "conditioned reflex" in rats by giving them electric shocks when they went through the wrong door and cheese when they chose the other. In time they automatically went to the door baited with cheese.

The Reds systematically sought to reduce their victims to the animal level and then to condition their reflexes by torture if they resisted and rewards if they yielded.

It is not surprising that some yielded when they became too sick in body to care what they said or too sick in mind to know the difference between truth and falsehood. As for the many who did not yield, including Lt. Francis A. Strieby, formerly of Cumberland and now of Okonoko, W. Va., in Dr. Mayo's words they prove that "the spirit of man can run deeper than the reflexes of Pavlov." It runs deep enough to save the human race.

Break For Pot Roasts

Farmers—or leaders of the Farmers Union—are greatly concerned about beef and the prices on the hoof therefor. And this is a time when Americans are eating more beef than at any time in recent history.

Beef consumption in the United States started upward after World War II and has shown increases every year. By 1951 the average American was eating a record helping of 55 pounds of beef a year. Since then the figure has jumped to 75 pounds. And most of the demand is for the better cuts.

Not only are housewives overbuying the best cuts, according to meat processors, but many of them are turning up their noses at the "good" or "commercial" U. S. grades of beef in favor of the "choice" and "prime" grades.

High freight rates and packers' labor costs, in addition to high retail overhead, account in large measure for what the consumer regards as high prices for beef. But if young women really knew their beef and how to use it, they could take the pressure off the demand for the best cuts and help to move the pot roasts, lack of demand for which is helping to gum up the beef business.

How To Keep Well

Starved Women

A stenographer, 23 years old, developed an aversion to food. She began to lose weight and within one year was down to skin and bones and had to be fed through a tube. The same thing happened to a 30 year old housewife whose weight dropped from 136 to 63 pounds. Both had been healthy; their families and physicians could not persuade them to eat.

What makes individuals starve themselves in this way? In this particular study the two women developed hysterical aversion to food as a result of an emotional disturbance (anorexia nervosa). Most of the victims are young females and seven out of 10 are under 26. The condition usually escapes detection until it is well advanced. In the early stages it was mistaken for a stomach or glandular disorder and most of the investigations and treatment were directed along this line.

Psychic loss of appetite comes on gradually and as it gains momentum the individual has a real obsession on eating. There is a repugnance for food associated with many morbid ideas relative to what food does to the body. In addition, menstruation stops (amenorrhea) and this, when combined with loss of appetite (anorexia) and weight, completes the triad of symptoms that characterizes the disturbance. Many physicians find it difficult to believe that nervousness is responsible but to date no one has been able to find a more logical cause. Furthermore, psychiatric care has led to cures.

It is well known that nervousness affects appetite. Those who receive bad news or become overly excited just before dinner may not have the desire to eat. This reaction is normal and temporary. On the other hand, in anorexia nervosa the patients are mentally disturbed from the beginning. This is not simply a failure of appetite; it is an abnormal distaste for food and an insane idea that occupies their minds day and night. A spinster of 45 who had been a victim of anorexia nervosa when she was a teen-ager still flushed, shrank away, and asked for a change of topic whenever the subject of food was discussed. In this respect it resembles the fears or phobias some individuals have of darkness, height, or an inclosed space.

Most of these patients have personality difficulties but studies have shown there is no common personality type. Half of them have a more than normal interest in bowel and eating functions (alimentary preoccupation). Others are overly conscientious and ambitious, or reticent and shy. At times they are moody and depressed and now and then contemplate suicide as the easy way out. Like others who become emotionally disturbed, they are anxious and hypochondriacal.

All of these sufferers need psychiatric attention to help overcome the fear of eating. Institutional care is necessary when the illness is severe because shock treatment may be required. Recovery is a slow process and many years may elapse before they learn to eat normally.

TOMORROW: A source of chest pain is described.

COLD DOES THIS

M. O. writes: Whenever I take an ice cold drink, I develop pain above the eyes. Could my sinus trouble be responsible?

REPLY

No. This type of pain results from reflex stimulation of nerves of the throat rather than from sinus trouble. Eating a large serving of ice cream does the same thing.

DIAPHRAGMATIC HERNIA

C. P. writes: Can a person have a hernia in the chest?

REPLY

Yes. The intestine protrudes through the diaphragm into the chest rather than through the abdominal wall. The condition is more bothersome when the person is lying down than when standing up.

NO NAME CALLING, PLEASE

T. R. writes: Is there such a thing as a female wart?

REPLY

You probably mean mother-daughter warts that appear on the feet of children. The lesions consist of one large wart (mother) and several tiny bud, or seed warts (children).

MANNERISM

L. W. writes: While looking at television my husband keeps drumming on the arms of his chair. This makes me nervous. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

This is an annoying habit. Why not bring it to his attention as he may be unaware of what he is doing. You may have to mention it several times before he is able to control the habit.

APPETITE LOSS

F. A. writes: Why is appetite lost in tuberculosis?

REPLY

Appetite wanes in many different diseases and the condition is not partial to tuberculosis. Chills, fever, and loss of appetite result from toxemia produced by the infectious process.

U. S. Considers Plan For Banning H-A Bombs; Ike Gets Too Sleepy For Concerts; U. S. May Blockade China Coast If Peace Talks Fail

WASHINGTON — Arguing inside the National Security Council recently Adm. Arthur Radford proposed that we outlaw the hydrogen and atom bombs just as we outlaw poison gas.

However, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said he was willing to see armies use baby A-bombs and atomic artillery, since they can be used on strictly military targets. He would outlaw only "block busters" which could blow up an entire city block.

This may be the fly in an otherwise sensible proposal. For no international commission exists to measure the size of atomic bombs; and once any kind of atomic weapon is used, it would be pretty hard to regulate them.

NOTE—The ban on poison gas by international treaty has been pretty well kept.

Inside the White House

Last February President Eisenhower told Howard Mitchell, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, that he likes to get to bed early, didn't expect to attend any of the winter's concerts. The other day, however, he bowed to custom and attended the season's opening. Despite reports that the President plays golf with "anyone handy around the club," each foursome is carefully selected in advance. He tries to compose a group consisting of one senator, one representative and one-out-of-town visitor. A recent foursome included Congressman Les Arends, Republican of Illinois; Missouri's Democratic Sen. Stu Symington and Colorado's Gov. Dan Thornton. An occasional club member hovers around, hoping to play with Ike, but the president usually has his team well organized. When Ike finishes a round of golf, he goes to the locker room, is just one of the boys. He takes a shower, frequently relaxes at a brief bridge game. Right after Ike was elected, the Secret Service ran a check on every employe of the Burning Tree Club. The club members, however, were not investigated on the theory that no dangerous characters would ever attain membership . . . When the President plays golf there are more Secret Service men around than there are caddies. Explained one S. S. agent: "We keep mighty busy on that golf course. Y'know those golf bags we tote aroun contain carbines—not shotguns, as is frequently rumored. Shotguns are for close work, and anyone we don't like isn't going to get close enough to the President for a close shot."

Dry Governor Of Maryland

Governor Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin of Maryland was the honored luncheon guest aboard the Australian cruiser Sydney when that vessel called at Baltimore. Arriving aboard late, the governor made his apologies to Capt. H. J. Buchanan, who told him to think nothing of it and offered him a drink.

"Just a glass of ginger ale," said the governor of Maryland.

Whereupon Captain Buchanan ordered all liquor removed from the ship's mess-room.

"Don't do that for me," said McKeldin. "I don't want to deprive others of a drink. I just don't drink myself."

"Aboard this ship," replied the Aussie commander, "we do as our honor guest does."

A minute later, an American came up to McKeldin, put his arm around his shoulder and said:

"Governor, I can't tell you how glad we are that you were 45 minutes late."

Dulles' Law Partner

There's been some criticism of Secretary of State Dulles for sending his law parter, Arthur Dean, to Panmunjom, instead of an experienced diplomat, for the preliminary peace talks. However, Dean is an able, clear-headed lawyer who was smart enough to advise Wall Street to cooperate with the Securities and Exchange Commission back in 1933, instead of bucking it. He should be a good negotiator.

The preliminary Korean peace talks he is conducting are a lot more important than the public realizes. Dean has been told to find out whether the Chinese Communists will do business without clearing every move with Moscow. If so—and if the Chinese are willing to deal directly with us—it may be the first step toward peaceful relations between the U. S. and Red China.

If not, and if we get nowhere with the Korean peace talks, the State Department appears about ready to go for the drastic plan long advocated by General MacArthur of blocking the China Coast and taking every step short of war to break the back of the Red China regime.

This is the big decision facing Dulles' law partner.

Washington Pipeline

Canny Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina took pains not to sit with Gov. Jimmy Byrnes at the annual South Carolina-Clemson football game. One year ago, at election time, Olin stayed with the Democrats; Jimmy bolted to Eisenhower. And when Jimmy crossed the football field between halves the other day he was booed . . . Johnston kept away from the boos. . . . "Teen-Age Gangs," the book on juvenile delinquency by Madeline Karr and Dale Kramer, has attracted so much attention that Mrs. Karr was asked by the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Committee to take an advisory job with the senators. She declined. "I'm expecting a young juvenile delinquent myself," she said . . . Juvenile delinquency is so bad in the nation's capital that the cost of replacing broken windows has gone up in 10 years from $10,000 a year to $55,000. . . . Republican politicians, worried over President Eisenhower's declining popularity, are planning the most high-powered congressional election campaign in history . . . A number of big businessmen, believe it or not, are fighting for more money for the Census Bureau. The Census Bureau has had to curtail its surveys—under the economy wave — which hits business planning. For years businessmen have relied on government figures to chart their future operations. Now these surveys are reduced by budget-pruning.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Signs Of The Times

The signs of the times are often read in little things, like the emphasis on the Godfrey-La Rosa fracas. Here is just an employer-employe argument over who gets the most fan mail or should an employe have a lawyer of his own when the employer is willing to provide one for nothing.

Actually, how much does it really matter to millions of people who read every word of it. Perhaps their answer would be that nothing else matters very much anymore, which is probably quite true. The people have an unerring intuition about such things. They have been bluffed so much and for so long a time that the commonplace becomes a relief. Great affairs have become so fantastic and even so monotonous that many feel the less they worry about them, the happier they will be.

Besides, everybody is all mixed up by the varieties of news and opinions and there is wonderment as to what is really true. In the Godfrey-La Rosa fracas, it is possible for even the layman to recognize a psychological pattern — the older man feeling the hoof-beats of time on his heels as youth crowds him. But in the Italo-Yugoslav quarrel, even the experts wonder why this could not have been anticipated and avoided.

Besides, Arthur Godfrey is popular and La Rose has developed a following and they are our own kind of people, so a homey row is a relief from the great men, but this fellow Tito has us puzzled. What kind of a guy is this. And when will he cut our throats?

Or take that quarrel between Israel and the Arabs: it reads like something out of the Old Testament. The walls of Jericho are falling again. But do we need to go to war over that? War has begun to bore. A good old-fashioned quarrel, like that between Rita Hayworth and Aly Khan, makes hot reading, but what is said at Panmunjom is the same thing that was said a month ago and a year ago and what are we doing there anyhow Then Rita gets herself married to this Haymes boy, whoever he may be, and settles down to the simple life, if that can be. And all the sob sisters sob about how she always wanted to put out her husband's slippers and live in gentle domesticity—only she never picked that kind of a husband, poor dear!

Then along comes a scandal involving the Republicans in New York State, which is amusing in a way because Tom Dewey has always been so righteous and nobody could believe that the Republicans would ever be like the Democrats. And nobody believed that the Republicans would ever tie up with crooked labor leaders, some of whom are actually in prison. Everybody likes to catch the pure at impurities. It is like a fat man falling on a banana peel. Besides, it takes the mind off Panmunjom and Trieste and what Winston Churchill said to John Foster Dulles, the best of which we know is never given out.

And why should it be? Sir Winston undoubtedly complained about being rationed as to liquid refreshments concerning which he is one of the world's greatest authorities. Also, the old boy must have growled no end that his doctors are making his inefficient by not letting him smoke 18 big, black cigars a day. It is nerve-wracking, what these doctors do to us.

While we imagine the great sit in solemn conversation about top secrets and ennobling thoughts, the likelihood is that they get down to the simple things in life, that is, the high cost of new clothes in London.

Unfortunately, these are really difficult times and decisions are being made which must affect our life and the lives of our children. If we all run away from the boringly unpleasant, no one will attempt to find a cure and the politicians will cover everything up so that they may remain longer in politics. In a free society, the people have to know the truth even if it hurts. Nothing is easier than to shove the truth under the carpet to be attended to in due course. But time never stops and events never wait. We can only escape from ourselves, not from the forces that move.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The gradualness of America's transition from a Korean wartime economy to a peacetime basis is pointed up by the latest Department of Commerce figures, which show that personal income dropped slightly from a rate of $287,500,000,000 last July to a rate of $285,800,000,000 in September.

This is a decline of about $1,700,000,000 for the nation as a whole and in all probability is due to the elimination of much of the overtime in industry.

$200 Weekly Not Infrequent

The overtime bonus, which has at times been necessary when productive facilities were being strained to get wartime speed in manufacturing, has become quite a big item. Some idea of what it means can be derived from the experience of some toolmakers in the Chicago area. Earning $2.50 an hour on straight-time pay, this would bring $100 for a 40-hour week. But when the day shift is stretched from 8 to 12 hours, the pay for each of the additional hours is $3.75, since overtime is figured on a basis of straight time plus 50 per cent extra. Also the $3.75 rate applies on Saturdays, where the toolmaker might be working 12 hours. Thus, if he works on Sunday, too, for 12 hours, it is possible for him to total $280 a week. Such incidents are rare, but they illustrate the way overtime and double time on Saturdays and Sundays help to swell the manufacturing payrolls. Payments of $200 a week for toolmakers have been frequent.

When the 40-hour week was first introduced, it was supposed to be a spread-the-work measure in times when the labor force was not fully employed. The time-and-a-half idea was a means of penalizing overtime and keeping it down. But with a labor force of 62,000,000 or more fully employed, the time-and-a-half premium became a necessity when the Korean program called for increased production in a hurry.

The labor unions, after the close of World War II, insisted that hourly rates be increased to take care of losses in pay due to elimination of overtime and the cry was "48 hours pay for 40 hours work." It is significant that this year, even as overtime pay has been reduced, the Department of Commerce reports that hourly rates of pay have been rising notwithstanding the fact that fewer hours are being worked.

The big question for the future of the American economy is whether labor costs will continue to rise. If so, there is little hope of a drop in prices to the consumer, which used to be the way that demand was stimulated when sales fell off. If labor costs keep rising, the price spiral will in due time cause a squeeze for the industrial world not unlike that which is worrying the farmer. Thus, while the outcry from the agricultural areas is that farm income is dropping, there would be less and less concern about it if the things the farmer has to buy were also dropping in price. While the political opponents of the administration are urging that subsidies be increased to maintain high farm prices, little is heard about the inflexibility of labor costs which may continue to rise until sales drop off still more and unemployment ensues.

Time For Statesmanship

This, therefore, is a time for labor-union statesmanship—a time to recognize that the removal of overtime in and of itself need not injure the economy. But if it is accompanied by a demand for higher hourly rates to offset overtime losses, a serious situation will be developed.

The diminution of personal income thus far noted isn't, relatively speaking, serious. After all, the September rate of $285,800,000,000 a year is above the rate for the first nine months of 1953, which was $284,300,000,000. This was 6.5 per cent higher than for the first nine months of 1952.

The readjustment now under way—in fact, it has been going on ever since the Korean War—shows every evidence of being absorbed without any indication of deep recession or depression. It is the kind of transition which forecasts an even healthier economy when production is again on a normal basis. And, incidentally, the increase in leisure hours brought about through the reduction of excessive overtime tends in the long run to increase consumer spending and to improve the health of the workers.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, (INS)—Twice each year the Department of Defense bares its soul and sinew to a group of 80 business and professional men, selected from all parts of the country. The purpose is to acquaint them with the needs and achievements of the armed forces and enable them to understand why and how the defense dollar is being spent.

The touring congregation is called the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference, ably handled by Col. W. Donn Hayes Jr.

We were briefed for an entire day at the Pentagon, then sat in bleacher seats at Quantico, Va., and Eglin Field, Fla., to watch startling demonstrations by the Marines and Air Force. The group has now gone on to Fort Benning, Ga., for a look at the Army, and will conclude the tour later this week with a trip on the carrier Tarawa.

This, then, is an interim report. The theme song of the trip seems to boil down to this: Each branch of the armed forces is economizing where it can in manpower and at the same time trying to increase its punch. The costs are admittedly appalling. The Army alone is spending about $300,000,000 a week, and a standard Navy fighter that once cost $50,000 now costs up to $500,000.

But the alternative is annihilation of this country and its allies by Russia, which is matching us stride for stride and may be ahead of us in some departments, including number of fighting aircraft — we were told in a variety of ways at the Pentagon.

Highlights of the tour to date are:

(1) The Navy's admission that it plans to build no more battleships and regards the four now in service as potential guided missile platforms; (2) a hint that we (and presumably the Russians) have a bomb that could destroy or reduce to rubble an area of 280 square miles; (3) the projected use of atomic devices by Marine landing parties.

Defense Secretary Wilson told the conference, "We don't think of the Russians as super-men, 40 feet tall." He reported 117,000 civilian lay-offs in the department and predicted "our 1955 budget model will get more horsepower, give more miles per gallon and cost a little less per pound."

Vice Admiral Arthur C. Davis, the Navy's NATO authority, told of the difficulties of forging a united military force out of component nations which frequently have been at war against one another in past history. The danger also exists that a NATO nation's determination to build itself military might reduce it economically or politically "to a point where it would fall prey to the very thing we're trying to protect it from—communism."

Adm. Davis listed other aches and pains of NATO but concluded, "Don't feel frustrated. It has its flaws, certainly, but it does manage to work a little better every day . . . better than any other effort of its kind in history."

Gen. Charles L. Bolte, vice chief of staff, sketched for the conferees the enormity of a modern infantry unit. "A single U. S. Army division eats 50,000 meals a day, needs 10 helicopters among hundreds of thousands of other items, burns 80,000 gallons of gas per hundred miles, needs 72 trains and 2,500 cars when it goes for a railroad ride, costs $90,000,000 a year after that, uses up 400 tons of ammunition every day it fights," he told his impressed listeners. We have lots of divisions.

Bright, competent young Earl D. Johnson, undersecretary of Army, said the Army hopes to cut its spending to $15,300,000,000 during this fiscal year. The job of dejobbing Defense Department civilians (there were more than half a million last year) will continue, Johnson stated. It is slow going, he added, because it takes from four to five months to fire a worker because of civil service protective clauses.

One big task confronting the Army is to make up its mind what it can best make itself or buy on the open market. A sharp inventory is being made of the $16,000,000,000 in goods in the Army's 73 major depots. The study will take two and a half years.

Navy Secretary Robert D. Anderson told the conference that the Navy would cost the taxpayers about $300,000,000 less this year. Adm. Donald B. Duncan reported favorably on the atomic submarine, and Marine Corps Gen. Gerald C. Thomas sketched the birth and development of amphibious warfare, since Churchill's disastrous Galipolis snafu . . . He dwelt at some length on the uses to which the Marine Corps is putting the helicopter—and we vividly saw what he meant the next day on a simulated battlefield in the Virginia forests.

Communism And Trade Unions

The forthcoming congressional investigation of Communists in trade unions will be concentrated on unions whose "strategic positions" pose a "continuing threat to our national security," according to Senator John Marshall Butler (R., Md.) head of a Senate Internal Security subcommittee which will initiate open hearings early this month.

Chairman Farmer of the NLRB on October 22 called for new legislation giving the government power to deal with situations wherein a union's nominal officers file non-Communist oaths but control of the union is vested in other persons not required to take the oath.

But the House Un-American Activities Committee on December 27 last had recommended that Congress repeal the Taft-Hartley oath requirement. The committee pointed out that union officers who are Communists could quit the party for a day, sign the pledge, and rejoin the next day. The committee interpretation stemmed from a U. S. Supreme Court ruling of May 8, 1950, which otherwise upheld the validity of the non-Communist affidavit requirement.

In reply to Russian and Red Chinese accusations that American forces resorted to germ warfare in Korea, he proved that the so-called "confessions" by American airmen had been extorted by scientific methods deliberately designed to crush the spirits of these prisoners. Physical torture was only part of this process.

The total picture, Dr. Mayo said, "is one of human beings being reduced to a status lower than that of animals: filthy, full of lice, festered wounds full of maggots; their sickness regulated to a point just short of death; unshaven, without haircuts or baths for as much as a year . . . isolated, faced by squads of trained interrogators, bullied incessantly, deprived of sleep and browbeaten into mental anguish."

This was not senseless brutality. It was, in fact, coldly calculated. Dr. Mayo noted how the Russian biologist Pavlov had created a "conditioned reflex" in rats by giving them electric shocks when they went through the wrong door and cheese when they chose the other. In time they automatically went to the door baited with cheese.

The Reds systematically sought to reduce their victims to the animal level and then to condition their reflexes by torture if they resisted and rewards if they yielded.

It is not surprising that some yielded when they became too sick in body to care what they said or too sick in mind to know the difference between truth and falsehood. As for the many who did not yield, including Lt. Francis A. Strieby, formerly of Cumberland and now of Okonoko, W. Va., in Dr. Mayo's words they prove that "the spirit of man can run deeper than the reflexes of Pavlov." It runs deep enough to save the human race.

Break For Pot Roasts

Farmers—or leaders of the Farmers Union—are greatly concerned about beef and the prices on the hoof therefor. And this is a time when Americans are eating more beef than at any time in recent history.

Beef consumption in the United States started upward after World War II and has shown increases every year. By 1951 the average American was eating a record helping of 55 pounds of beef a year. Since then the figure has jumped to 75 pounds. And most of the demand is for the better cuts.

Not only are housewives overbuying the best cuts, according to meat processors, but many of them are turning up their noses at the "good" or "commercial" U. S. grades of beef in favor of the "choice" and "prime" grades.

High freight rates and packers' labor costs, in addition to high retail overhead, account in large measure for what the consumer regards as high prices for beef. But if young women really knew their beef and how to use it, they could take the pressure off the demand for the best cuts and help to move the pot roasts, lack of demand for which is helping to gum up the beef business.

How To Keep Well

Starved Women

A stenographer, 23 years old, developed an aversion to food. She began to lose weight and within one year was down to skin and bones and had to be fed through a tube. The same thing happened to a 30 year old housewife whose weight dropped from 136 to 63 pounds. Both had been healthy; their families and physicians could not persuade them to eat.

What makes individuals starve themselves in this way? In this particular study the two women developed hysterical aversion to food as a result of an emotional disturbance (anorexia nervosa). Most of the victims are young females and seven out of 10 are under 26. The condition usually escapes detection until it is well advanced. In the early stages it was mistaken for a stomach or glandular disorder and most of the investigations and treatment were directed along this line.

Psychic loss of appetite comes on gradually and as it gains momentum the individual has a real obsession on eating. There is a repugnance for food associated with many morbid ideas relative to what food does to the body. In addition, menstruation stops (amenorrhea) and this, when combined with loss of appetite (anorexia) and weight, completes the triad of symptoms that characterizes the disturbance. Many physicians find it difficult to believe that nervousness is responsible but to date no one has been able to find a more logical cause. Furthermore, psychiatric care has led to cures.

It is well known that nervousness affects appetite. Those who receive bad news or become overly excited just before dinner may not have the desire to eat. This reaction is normal and temporary. On the other hand, in anorexia nervosa the patients are mentally disturbed from the beginning. This is not simply a failure of appetite; it is an abnormal distaste for food and an insane idea that occupies their minds day and night. A spinster of 45 who had been a victim of anorexia nervosa when she was a teen-ager still flushed, shrank away, and asked for a change of topic whenever the subject of food was discussed. In this respect it resembles the fears or phobias some individuals have of darkness, height, or an inclosed space.

Most of these patients have personality difficulties but studies have shown there is no common personality type. Half of them have a more than normal interest in bowel and eating functions (alimentary preoccupation). Others are overly conscientious and ambitious, or reticent and shy. At times they are moody and depressed and now and then contemplate suicide as the easy way out. Like others who become emotionally disturbed, they are anxious and hypochondriacal.

All of these sufferers need psychiatric attention to help overcome the fear of eating. Institutional care is necessary when the illness is severe because shock treatment may be required. Recovery is a slow process and many years may elapse before they learn to eat normally.

COLD DOES THIS

M. O. writes: Whenever I take an ice cold drink, I develop pain above the eyes. Could my sinus trouble be responsible?

REPLY

No. This type of pain results from reflex stimulation of nerves of the throat rather than from sinus trouble. Eating a large serving of ice cream does the same thing.

DIAPHRAGMATIC HERNIA

C. P. writes: Can a person have a hernia in the chest?

REPLY

Yes. The intestine protrudes through the diaphragm into the chest rather than through the abdominal wall. The condition is more bothersome when the person is lying down than when standing up.

NO NAME CALLING, PLEASE

T. R. writes: Is there such a thing as a female wart?

REPLY

You probably mean mother-daughter warts that appear on the feet of children. The lesions consist of one large wart (mother) and several tiny bud, or seed warts (children).

MANNERISM

L. W. writes: While looking at television my husband keeps drumming on the arms of his chair. This makes me nervous. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

This is an annoying habit. Why not bring it to his attention as he may be unaware of what he is doing. You may have to mention it several times before he is able to control the habit.

APPETITE LOSS

F. A. writes: Why is appetite lost in tuberculosis?

REPLY

Appetite wanes in many different diseases and the condition is not partial to tuberculosis. Chills, fever, and loss of appetite result from toxemia produced by the infectious process.

U. S. Considers Plan For Banning H-A Bombs; Ike Gets Too Sleepy For Concerts; U. S. May Blockade China Coast If Peace Talks Fail

WASHINGTON — Arguing inside the National Security Council recently Adm. Arthur Radford proposed that we outlaw the hydrogen and atom bombs just as we outlaw poison gas.

However, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said he was willing to see armies use baby A-bombs and atomic artillery, since they can be used on strictly military targets. He would outlaw only "block busters" which could blow up an entire city block.

This may be the fly in an otherwise sensible proposal. For no international commission exists to measure the size of atomic bombs; and once any kind of atomic weapon is used, it would be pretty hard to regulate them.

NOTE—The ban on poison gas by international treaty has been pretty well kept.

Inside the White House

Last February President Eisenhower told Howard Mitchell, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, that he likes to get to bed early, didn't expect to attend any of the winter's concerts. The other day, however, he bowed to custom and attended the season's opening. Despite reports that the President plays golf with "anyone handy around the club," each foursome is carefully selected in advance. He tries to compose a group consisting of one senator, one representative and one-out-of-town visitor. A recent foursome included Congressman Les Arends, Republican of Illinois; Missouri's Democratic Sen. Stu Symington and Colorado's Gov. Dan Thornton. An occasional club member hovers around, hoping to play with Ike, but the president usually has his team well organized. When Ike finishes a round of golf, he goes to the locker room, is just one of the boys. He takes a shower, frequently relaxes at a brief bridge game. Right after Ike was elected, the Secret Service ran a check on every employe of the Burning Tree Club. The club members, however, were not investigated on the theory that no dangerous characters would ever attain membership . . . When the President plays golf there are more Secret Service men around than there are caddies. Explained one S. S. agent: "We keep mighty busy on that golf course. Y'know those golf bags we tote aroun contain carbines—not shotguns, as is frequently rumored. Shotguns are for close work, and anyone we don't like isn't going to get close enough to the President for a close shot."

Dry Governor Of Maryland

Governor Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin of Maryland was the honored luncheon guest aboard the Australian cruiser Sydney when that vessel called at Baltimore. Arriving aboard late, the governor made his apologies to Capt. H. J. Buchanan, who told him to think nothing of it and offered him a drink.

"Just a glass of ginger ale," said the governor of Maryland.

Whereupon Captain Buchanan ordered all liquor removed from the ship's mess-room.

"Don't do that for me," said McKeldin. "I don't want to deprive others of a drink. I just don't drink myself."

"Aboard this ship," replied the Aussie commander, "we do as our honor guest does."

A minute later, an American came up to McKeldin, put his arm around his shoulder and said:

"Governor, I can't tell you how glad we are that you were 45 minutes late."

Dulles' Law Partner

There's been some criticism of Secretary of State Dulles for sending his law parter, Arthur Dean, to Panmunjom, instead of an experienced diplomat, for the preliminary peace talks. However, Dean is an able, clear-headed lawyer who was smart enough to advise Wall Street to cooperate with the Securities and Exchange Commission back in 1933, instead of bucking it. He should be a good negotiator.

The preliminary Korean peace talks he is conducting are a lot more important than the public realizes. Dean has been told to find out whether the Chinese Communists will do business without clearing every move with Moscow. If so—and if the Chinese are willing to deal directly with us—it may be the first step toward peaceful relations between the U. S. and Red China.

If not, and if we get nowhere with the Korean peace talks, the State Department appears about ready to go for the drastic plan long advocated by General MacArthur of blocking the China Coast and taking every step short of war to break the back of the Red China regime.

This is the big decision facing Dulles' law partner.

Washington Pipeline

Canny Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina took pains not to sit with Gov. Jimmy Byrnes at the annual South Carolina-Clemson football game. One year ago, at election time, Olin stayed with the Democrats; Jimmy bolted to Eisenhower. And when Jimmy crossed the football field between halves the other day he was booed . . . Johnston kept away from the boos. . . . "Teen-Age Gangs," the book on juvenile delinquency by Madeline Karr and Dale Kramer, has attracted so much attention that Mrs. Karr was asked by the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Committee to take an advisory job with the senators. She declined. "I'm expecting a young juvenile delinquent myself," she said . . . Juvenile delinquency is so bad in the nation's capital that the cost of replacing broken windows has gone up in 10 years from $10,000 a year to $55,000. . . . Republican politicians, worried over President Eisenhower's declining popularity, are planning the most high-powered congressional election campaign in history . . . A number of big businessmen, believe it or not, are fighting for more money for the Census Bureau. The Census Bureau has had to curtail its surveys—under the economy wave—which hits business planning. For years businessmen have relied on government figures to chart their future operations. Now these surveys are reduced by budget-pruning.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Signs Of The Times

The signs of the times are often read in little things, like the emphasis on the Godfrey-La Rosa fracas. Here is just an employer-employe argument over who gets the most fan mail or should an employe have a lawyer of his own when the employer is willing to provide one for nothing.

Actually, how much does it really matter to millions of people who read every word of it. Perhaps their answer would be that nothing else matters very much anymore, which is probably quite true. The people have an unerring intuition about such things. They have been bluffed so much and for so long a time that the commonplace becomes a relief. Great affairs have become so fantastic and even so monotonous that many feel the less they worry about them, the happier they will be.

Then along comes a scandal involving the Republicans in New York State, which is amusing in a way because Tom Dewey has always been so righteous and nobody could believe that the Republicans would ever be like the Democrats. And nobody believed that the Republicans would ever tie up with crooked labor leaders, some of whom are actually in prison. Everybody likes to catch the pure at impurities. It is like a fat man falling on a banana peel. Besides, it takes the mind off Panmunjom and Trieste and what Winston Churchill said to John Foster Dulles, the best of which we know is never given out.

Besides, everybody is all mixed up by the varieties of news and opinions and there is wonderment as to what is really true. In the Godfrey-La Rosa fracas, it is possible for even the layman to recognize a psychological pattern — the older man feeling the hoof-beats of time on his heels as youth crowds him. But in the Italo-Yugoslav quarrel, even the experts wonder why this could not have been anticipated and avoided.

Besides, Arthur Godfrey is popular and La Rose has developed a following and they are our own kind of people, so a homey row is a relief from the great men, but this fellow Tito has us puzzled. What kind of a guy is this. And when will he cut our throats?

Or take that quarrel between Israel and the Arabs: it reads like something out of the Old Testament. The walls of Jericho are falling again. But do we need to go to war over that? War has begun to bore. A good old-fashioned quarrel, like that between Rita Hayworth and Aly Khan, makes hot reading, but what is said at Panmunjom is the same thing that was said a month ago and a year ago and what are we doing there anyhow. Then Rita gets herself married to this Haymes boy, whoever he may be, and settles down to the simple life, if that can be. And all the sob sisters sob about how she always wanted to put out her husband's slippers and live in gentle domesticity—only she never picked that kind of a husband, poor dear!

While we imagine the great sit in solemn conversation about top secrets and ennobling thoughts, the likelihood is that they get down to the simple things in life, that is, the high cost of new clothes in London.

Unfortunately, these are really difficult times and decisions are being made which must affect our life and the lives of our children. If we all run away from the boringly unpleasant, no one will attempt to find a cure and the politicians will cover everything up so that they may remain longer in politics. In a free society, the people have to know the truth even if it hurts. Nothing is easier than to shove the truth under the carpet to be attended to in due course. But time never stops and events never wait. We can only escape from ourselves, not from the forces that move.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The gradualness of America's transition from a Korean wartime economy to a peacetime basis is pointed up by the latest Department of Commerce figures, which show that personal income dropped slightly from a rate of $287,500,000,000 last July to a rate of $285,800,000,000 in September.

This is a decline of about $1,700,000,000 for the nation as a whole and in all probability is due to the elimination of much of the overtime in industry.

$200 Weekly Not Infrequent

The overtime bonus, which has at times been necessary when productive facilities were being strained to get wartime speed in manufacturing, has become quite a big item. Some idea of what it means can be derived from the experience of some toolmakers in the Chicago area. Earning $2.50 an hour on straight-time pay, this would bring $100 for a 40-hour week. But when the day shift is stretched from 8 to 12 hours, the pay for each of the additional hours is $3.75, since overtime is figured on a basis of straight time plus 50 per cent extra. Also the $3.75 rate applies on Saturdays, where the toolmaker might be working 12 hours. Thus, if he works on Sunday, too, for 12 hours, it is possible for him to total $280 a week. Such incidents are rare, but they illustrate the way overtime and double time on Saturdays and Sundays help to swell the manufacturing payrolls. Payments of $200 a week for toolmakers have been frequent.

When the 40-hour week was first introduced, it was supposed to be a spread-the-work measure in times when the labor force was not fully employed. The time-and-a-half idea was a means of penalizing overtime and keeping it down. But with a labor force of 62,000,000 or more fully employed, the time-and-a-half premium became a necessity when the Korean program called for increased production in a hurry.

The labor unions, after the close of World War II, insisted that hourly rates be increased to take care of losses in pay due to elimination of overtime and the cry was "48 hours pay for 40 hours work."

It is significant that this year, even as overtime pay has been reduced, the Department of Commerce reports that hourly rates of pay have been rising notwithstanding the fact that fewer hours are being worked.

The big question for the future of the American economy is whether labor costs will continue to rise. If so, there is little hope of a drop in prices to the consumer, which used to be the way that demand was stimulated when sales fell off. If labor costs keep rising, the price spiral will in due time cause a squeeze for the industrial world not unlike that which is worrying the farmer. Thus, while the outcry from the agricultural areas is that farm income is dropping, there would be less and less concern about it if the things the farmer has to buy were also dropping in price. While the political opponents of the administration are urging that subsidies be increased to maintain high farm prices, little is heard about the inflexibility of labor costs which may continue to rise until sales drop off still more and unemployment ensues.

Time For Statesmanship

This, therefore, is a time for labor-union statesmanship—a time to recognize that the removal of overtime in and of itself need not injure the economy. But if it is accompanied by a demand for higher hourly rates to offset overtime losses, a serious situation will be developed.

The diminution of personal income thus far noted isn't, relatively speaking, serious. After all, the September rate of $285,800,000,000 a year is above the rate for the first nine months of 1953, which was $284,300,000,000. This was 6.5 per cent higher than for the first nine months of 1952.

The readjustment now under way—in fact, it has been going on ever since the Korean War—shows every evidence of being absorbed without any indication of deep recession or depression. It is the kind of transition which forecasts an even healthier economy when production is again on a normal basis. And, incidentally, the increase in leisure hours brought about through the reduction of excessive overtime tends in the long run to increase consumer spending and to improve the health of the workers.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, (INS)—Twice each year the Department of Defense bares its soul and sinew to a group of 80 business and professional men, selected from all parts of the country. The purpose is to acquaint them with the needs and achievements of the armed forces and enable them to understand why and how the defense dollar is being spent.

The touring congregation is called the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference, ably handled by Col. W. Donn Hayes Jr.

We were briefed for an entire day at the Pentagon, then sat in bleacher seats at Quantico, Va., and Eglin Field, Fla., to watch startling demonstrations by the Marines and Air Force. The group has now gone on to Fort Benning, Ga., for a look at the Army, and will conclude the tour later this week with a trip on the carrier Tarawa.

This, then, is an interim report. The theme song of the trip seems to boil down to this: Each branch of the armed forces is economizing where it can in manpower and at the same time trying to increase its punch. The costs are admittedly appalling. The Army alone is spending about $300,000,000 a week, and a standard Navy fighter that once cost $50,000 now costs up to $500,000.

But the alternative is annihilation of this country and its allies by Russia, which is matching us stride for stride and may be ahead of us in some departments, including number of fighting aircraft—we were told in a variety of ways at the Pentagon.

Highlights of the tour to date are:

(1) The Navy's admission that it plans to build no more battleships and regards the four now in service as potential guided missile platforms; (2) a hint that we (and presumably the Russians) have a bomb that could destroy or reduce to rubble an area of 280 square miles; (3) the projected use of atomic devices by Marine landing parties.

Defense Secretary Wilson told the conference, "We don't think of the Russians as super-men, 40 feet tall." He reported 117,000 civilian lay-offs in the department and predicted "our 1955 budget model will get more horsepower, give more miles per gallon and cost a little less per pound."

Vice Admiral Arthur C. Davis, the Navy's NATO authority, told of the difficulties of forging a united military force out of component nations which frequently have been at war against one another in past history. The danger also exists that a NATO nation's determination to build itself military might reduce it economically or politically "to a point where it would fall prey to the very thing we're trying to protect it from—communism."

Adm. Davis listed other aches and pains of NATO but concluded, "Don't feel frustrated. It has its flaws, certainly, but it does manage to work a little better every day . . . better than any other effort of its kind in history."

Gen. Charles L. Bolte, vice chief of staff, sketched for the conferees the enormity of a modern infantry unit. "A single U. S. Army division eats 50,000 meals a day, needs 10 helicopters among hundreds of thousands of other items, burns 80,000 gallons of gas per hundred miles, needs 72 trains and 2,500 cars when it goes for a railroad ride, costs $90,000,000 a year after that, uses up 400 tons of ammunition every day it fights," he told his impressed listeners. We have lots of divisions.

Bright, competent young Earl D. Johnson, undersecretary of Army, said the Army hopes to cut its spending to $15,300,000,000 during this fiscal year. The job of dejobbing Defense Department civilians (there were more than half a million last year) will continue, Johnson stated. It is slow going, he added, because it takes from four to five months to fire a worker because of civil service protective clauses.

One big task confronting the Army is to make up its mind what it can best make itself or buy on the open market. A sharp inventory is being made of the $16,000,000,000 in goods in the Army's 73 major depots. The study will take two and a half years.

Navy Secretary Robert D. Anderson told the conference that the Navy would cost the taxpayers about $300,000,000 less this year. Adm. Donald B. Duncan reported favorably on the atomic submarine, and Marine Corps Gen. Gerald C. Thomas sketched the birth and development of amphibious warfare, since Churchill's disastrous Galipolis snafu . . . He dwelt at some length on the uses to which the Marine Corps is putting the helicopter—and we vividly saw what he meant the next day on a simulated battlefield in the Virginia forests.

McKeldin Views School Problem As Challenge

Explains Md. Plan To Finance Buildings

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 3 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin yesterday called Maryland's mushrooming school population "an exhilarating and challenging problem."

Then he told how Maryland is meeting it, with a plan keeping "the financial responsibility. . . where it belongs—in the counties."

In a speech to the Southern Governors Conference, the Maryland chief executive noted the program already had provided 51-million dollars for new schools and a credit pool of another 19-million. It helped build or start 252 schools since 1949, providing 2,732 classrooms for 81,960 pupils.

"But the population still is growing," he said. "We need a great many more schools. An increase of 140,000 in the enrollment is expected in the next six years."

By the 1959 fall term, McKeldin said, Maryland expects the present school population of more than 406,000 to grow to about 550,000.

"It continues to be a problem, but an exhilarating and challenging problem," he declared. "We would rather have it that way than to have a receding population with empty classrooms."

Then McKeldin explained the Maryland financing program, under which counties are given the advantage of the state's credit rating and resultant low interest rates on bonds.

The State Board of Public Works passes on loans after they are screened by the Department of Education. Counties which pass the screening and get the loans must repay them in 15 years.

Under Maryland's tax set up each county gets back a certain percentage of state taxes collected within its borders.

If a county's local taxes are not enough to pay off the loan, the state then can withhold enough to make up the difference from the county's share of state taxes.

We Concede The Election

Straws show which way the political soda water goes. Yesterday's results proved that coincidences can be ordered by catalogue number.

Once again the right prevails, justice triumphs and liberty is closer than ever.

Cities, counties and states balloted themselves into an off-year landslide in a playgrounds sandpile. The old rascals handed the mace of emoluments to the young rascals.

You cannot fool all the people all of the time but you don't have to. You can sub-lease the contract to your district leaders.

The results mean the bunk examiners have balanced the books. The stockpile of promises has been converted into the slagheap of excuses.

McKeldin Views School Problem As Challenge

Explains Md. Plan To Finance Buildings

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 3 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin yesterday called Maryland's mushrooming school population "an exhilarating and challenging problem."

Then he told how Maryland is meeting it, with a plan keeping "the financial responsibility. . . where it belongs—in the counties."

In a speech to the Southern Governors Conference, the Maryland chief executive noted the program already had provided 51-million dollars for new schools and a credit pool of another 19-million. It helped build or start 252 schools since 1949, providing 2,732 classrooms for 81,960 pupils.

"But the population still is growing," he said. "We need a great many more schools. An increase of 140,000 in the enrollment is expected in the next six years."

By the 1959 fall term, McKeldin said, Maryland expects the present school population of more than 406,000 to grow to about 550,000.

"It continues to be a problem, but an exhilarating and challenging problem," he declared. "We would rather have it that way than to have a receding population with empty classrooms."

Then McKeldin explained the Maryland financing program, under which counties are given the advantage of the state's credit rating and resultant low interest rates on bonds.

The State Board of Public Works passes on loans after they are screened by the Department of Education. Counties which pass the screening and get the loans must repay them in 15 years.

Under Maryland's tax set up each county gets back a certain percentage of state taxes collected within its borders.

If a county's local taxes are not enough to pay off the loan, the state then can withhold enough to make up the difference from the county's share of state taxes.

Pharmacists To Meet Here On Thursday

The Allegany County Pharmaceutical Association will be host to the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association's regional meeting here tomorrow.

Sessions will get underway following a luncheon at 1 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Dr. Otto Muehlhause, president of the Maryland group, will preside. C. Murray Allen, Allegany group president, will extend greetings.

Principal speaker will be George Frates, Washington, D. C., representative of the National Association of Retail Druggists. Others to be heard are Lester L. Martin, this city, first vice-president of the Maryland association; Frank Block, president of the Baltimore Retail Druggists' Association; Charles S. Austin, Baltimore, delegate to the national pharmaceutical convention, and president of the Maryland State Board.

A card party has been arranged for wives of members attending the convention. The session is scheduled to close with a dinner about 5 p. m.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Distributed By INS)

We Concede The Election

Straws show which way the political soda water goes. Yesterday's results proved that coincidences can be ordered by catalogue number.

Once again the right prevails, justice triumphs and liberty is closer than ever.

Cities, counties and states balloted themselves into an off-year landslide in a playgrounds sandpile. The old rascals handed the mace of emoluments to the young rascals.

You cannot fool all the people all of the time but you don't have to. You can sub-lease the contract to your district leaders.

The reform element is firmly entrenched at the microphones and in the quiz panels. It seems to have promised more omelets than there are eggs.

The results mean the bunk examiners have balanced the books. The stockpile of promises has been converted into the slagheap of excuses.

The man I voted for was defeated with all on board. He had promised to put the pin-ball machines back in the day nurseries.

The voting was over at nine officially. But when the saloons opened at ten it started up again.

So we will not know who's elected until tomorrow. Same as the Kentucky hills.

Baptists To Attend Stewardship Classes

Classes in stewardship training will be held today at 7 p. m. in La-Vale Baptist Church.

Reel Resumes Duties

Glenwood "Tag" Reel, of 754 Maryland Avenue, has resumed his duties as maintenance man in the City Recreation Department. He has been in Florida for the past several weeks.

Council Of Church Women Plans Community Day

A program in observance of World Community Day will be presented Friday at 7:30 p. m., in First Presbyterian Church under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Council of Church Women.

Based on the theme, "You Can Be a Builder of Peace," the Friday night program will feature a tableau on "We Will Build Peace." Churches which will be represented in the tableau include First Presbyterian, St. Luke's Lutheran, Evangelical United Brethren, Grace Methodist, Grace Baptist, Living Stone Brethren, Zion Reformed and Centre Street Methodist. The principal speaker will be Rev. Seth C. Morrow, host church pastor.

Radio programs during the week will feature support of a council project "Treat the homeless refugees of the world to a warm blanket," which will be culminated at the Friday program. Persons will be asked to donate home furnishings, such as blankets, sheets, towels, curtains, which will be sent to the homeless overseas.

The committee in charge includes Miss Twila Willison, chairman; Mrs. E. W. Athey, co-chairman; Mrs. H. M. Burgess, public relations, and Mrs. Robert Young, tableau chairman. Every Protestant church in the community will be represented in one way or other in the Friday program, Miss Willison said.

Officers of the council are Mrs. L. G. Bridgers, president; Mrs. Robert Young, first vice president; Mrs. Lester Martin, secretary, and Mrs. Jack Means, treasurer.

Attorney Fees For Welfare Cases Aired

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has received information from Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, director of the Welfare Board, which exploded a rumor concerning attorney's fees in connection with collecting funds from the estates of persons who had received public welfare payments.

A postcard was received by the board several days ago in which the writer, whose name was not legible enough to decipher, claimed that the attorney to the county board had been paid fees which "plundered the funds for aid to welfare clients."

Presents Tabulation

Mrs. Westerfeld appeared before the board yesterday with a tabulation showing the amount of money recovered by her department from estates during 1952 and 1953. Last year there was a total of $4,482.92 recovered in claims on the estates of persons who had received assistance. So far this year the amount is $2,776.56.

For his work in connection with these cases the attorney to the board, Gorman E. Getty, received fees totaling $150. It was also pointed out by Mrs. Westerfeld that Getty handles 25 or 30 times the number of cases for which he receives any fee and that by law the Welfare Board is required to place a claim against estates of relief clients.

Do Not Affect Fund

The fees paid the attorney come from the funds recovered and do not affect the amount of money received by any person on the relief rolls. Mrs. Westerfeld said the amount of money recovered was quite large in comparison with the attorney fees paid.

Members of the board explained that Getty, as attorney for the commissioners and the Welfare Board, is required to act in all these cases and the procedure is rather extensive in some cases. The petitions which must be prepared are comparable to drawing up bills of complaint and other court papers in divorce cases.

Parking Meter Funds Aired By City Auditor

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson said yesterday that Commissioner John J. Long was apparently referring to "gross" revenue rather than "net" in figures quoted Monday during a discussion of the need for replacing the city's parking meters.

Long in a pre-council session had said that the city has a service "netting $25,000 to $30,000 a year and something should be done about it." He wants the meters replaced and said they are "antiquated."

Yesterday, Gibson pointed out that gross income from meters had never exceeded $30,000 in any year.

Purchased In 1947

The meters which Long wants replaced were purchased in 1947 from M. H. Rhodes, Inc. Included in the purchase were 454 meters at a cost of $20,666.79. Shortly after the purchase, the company made some changes in its product and replaced heads of all meters.

Gibson said last year's net from meters was $24,439.41; in 1951-52 it was $21,407.49; in 1950-51 it was $22,337.46; and in 1949-50 it was $21,184.45.

Gross income from the meters in several other years, cited as examples, was: 1945-46 a $16,081.01 total; 1946-47 it was $22,758.37; 1947-48 (15 months), $33,382.86; 1949-50 a total of $26,855.23; 1950-51 it was $26,891.68; 1951-52 a total of $26,910.70; and 1952-53 (to February 28), $19,827.16.

Pioneer In Field

Gross revenues since the city first installed parking meters in 1936 have amounted to $343,286.50.

Cumberland was a pioneer in the field. The undertaking was written up in the municipal yearbook during those early days and Gibson said he had answered numerous inquiries from other cities and towns about the local parking meter setup.

Meters are made to pay for themselves under a "split income" plan devised by the company. This provides 50 per cent of the revenue for payment of meter debt. It also, of course, results in a loss of revenue for other municipal purposes.

Webster Reports Progress On Varied School Projects

A summary of the $3,500,000 school expansion program for Allegany County shows the projects are well underway, with a few of them completed.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools for the Allegany County Board of Education, reported yesterday two conferences with architects are planned this week.

One will be with D. B. Johannes, of the Silver Spring firm of Johannes and Murray, on plans for the new LaVale elementary school.

Preliminary Drawings

Webster said preliminary drawings have been presented to the Board of Education on this school located on Parkside Avenue in upper LaVale.

The design calls for a building with ten classrooms, a library room that can be used as a class room, cafeteria and kitchen large enough to serve the students of a junior high that will be built in the future.

There will also be a teachers room, health room and a principal's office.

Carver High and Oldtown School's additions are outlined in the preliminary drawings of the architectural firm of Walton and Madden of Mt. Rainier.

The addition to Oldtown will be located in the rear of the present structure and will call for four class rooms, one large farm and general shop, a combination gymnasium - auditorium with dress rooms and showers beneath. The present auditorium and stage will be remodeled into a cafeteria and kitchen, Webster said.

Addition At Carver

At Carver an L-shaped addition will be constructed, according to the preliminary plans. This addition to the present structure will make the finished school a U-shaped building. The main entrance will be in the center. A courtyard in front will be made by the tearing down of the brick residence used as a home economics and shop building.

On the side of the building toward Decatur Street will be the wing housing the combination auditorium-gymnasium with dressing rooms underneath, Webster pointed out. Vocational arts shops will be in the rear of this part of the annex.

The present auditorium and gymnasium will be remodeled into home economic rooms. Additional rest rooms will be constructed in the new part.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, is re-drawing plans for the addition at Flintstone School. The original plans were abandoned three years ago when the estimates of the contractors exceeded the amount of money available for its construction.

Work At Flintstone

The design now calls for four classrooms, cafeteria, two home economics rooms and one auditorium-gymnasium with showers and dressing rooms.

A farm shop has been completed and is in use and a sewage disposal plant will be finished in two weeks by the contractor, the George F. Hazelwood Company.

The selection of a location for thet new Bruce High School in Westernport has been one of the problems in that project, but Webster said the Board of Education has narrowed down the sites to a very few and expects to make decision soon.

To Select Site

Bruce High School, now being designed by Minter, will have 22 classrooms, four laboratories, three shops, three home economic labcratories, an auditorium and gymnasium, a library and the usual health, faculty and principal's offices.

McCoole School addition has been completed and will be dedicated November 11 while the new Lincoln School in Frostburg has been used since the beginning of the semester by the colored elementary pupils of that community.

In the planning stage is the four-room annex for Johnson Heights School.

Arrive From Far East

Four area sailors are serving aboard the battleship USS New Jersey which arrived on the West Coast Friday after six months of combat and training duty in Korea waters.

Returning to Norfolk via the Panama Canal are Thomas H. Emery, fireman, son of Mrs. Ventura F. Emery and husband of Mrs. Hilda J. Emery, 2[illegible] Bond Street; Calvin F. Mellinger, seaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Mellinger, RD 1, Swanton; James A. Cirillo, metalsmith third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cosimo J. Cirillo, 84 West Piedmont Street, Keyser, and Don L. McDonald, interior communications electrician third class, New Creek.

Estimated cost of the Savannah River hydrogen-bomb project in South Carolina is a billion and a quarter dollars, more than double the cost of the Panama Canal, says the National Geographic Society.

THIS MONTH, NOVEMBER

Free MINK STOLE

Get that Million Dollar Look From the

MILLION DOLLAR BEER

That's right, Old German Beer this month will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds & hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.

No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:

Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . ." Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

B&O Dieselization Completed To East

Railroad history was made on the B & O Monday afternoon when the passenger Train 22, known as the "Washingtonian", left the Queen City Station here at 3:27

It marked the complete dieselization for freight and passenger services between Cumberland and Jersey City, N. J. The rail distance between here and the New Jersey city is 369.5 miles.

The retirement of the steam power is in keeping with the modernization program of the railroad, Howard E. Simpson, president, stated.

The discontinuance of the steam power on this historic run was made possible by the delivery of eight new diesel passenger units and seven all-purpose diesel locomotives. This new equipment is part of a total of 47 new diesel units in the B & O's current order for equipment of this type. All of these new diesels will be delivered to the railroad by February, 1954. Completion of the order will give the B & O a total of 848 diesel units on its lines.

President Simpson pointed out that with the diesel equipment on hand, 77 per cent of freight service of the railroad is diesel-powered, while 70 per cent of the passenger train miles and 67 per cent of yard switching is carried out with diesel equipment.

In addition to the new diesel equipment, the B & O is operating ten rail diesel cars in the Pittsburgh vicinity and between Baltimore-Washington-Brunswick. These modern high-speed units are used primarily for the transportation of commuter passengers over short runs.

Five of these new RDC units were added to the Baltimore-Washington run on September 28, providing a total of 25 trains daily between the two cities.

Train 22, passing through Washington at 7 p. m. last night, marked an important milestone in the history of rail transportation for the nation's capital. It was 118 years ago that the B & O operated the first railroad train ever to enter the city of Washington.

Powered by the original "Atlantic" locomotive, the small engine steamed noisily into a make-shift station at the foot of Capitol Hill. The date was August 24, 1835. Steam trains have been in continuous operation between the two cities from that date until last night, when 22 marked the discontinuance of this service by the B & O.

Schoenadel Is Given Beer, Wine Permit

The Board of License Commissioners for Allegany County yesterday granted a beer and wine permit to Henry J. Schoenadel, operator of the Fairgo Cafe.

Schoenadel surrendered his beer license a year ago after he was convicted in Circuit Court of selling intoxicants to minors. Members of the board said that he has been without a license for the required year and they find nothing in the regulations in this case in which to refuse issuance of another permit to him.

The Fairgo Cafe is located on the road leading into the Cumberland Fair Grounds.

spend as much time as possible on the floor of the House, but in general following the custom for freshmen Congressmen of being seen and not heard.

"My first speech in Congress was on behalf of Daylight Saving Time and I learned then that you can have more fun out of the job if you don't take yourself too seriously. I was not as fortunate when I took the floor in behalf of the Administration's bill to admit 240,000 refugees."

"I had the dubious distinction in the last session of introducing more bills and getting more of them passed than any other freshman Congressman," Hyde noted. "Most of them were innocuous.

"I soon discovered that if you want a bill of any importance passed, it is best to ask the chairman of the subcommittee to which it would be referred to introduce it so as to gain his support.

"Congressmen are jealous of their seniority and freshmen need to be careful not to arouse the antagonism of their seniors in service," Hyde said.

Valley High School of Lonaconing won the championship of the W.M.I. Soccer League yesterday by defeating Beall High School at Frostburg in a 1-0 thriller which was decided in the second period on a field goal by Randall Brown, center forward, and leading point-getter in the five-club circuit.

Approximately 500 persons, the largest crowd of the season at Frostburg, saw the Black Knights win over a stubborn Mountaineer eleven. The victory was the sixth against one loss and one tie for Valley and gave the 'Coney school 13 points in the league standings. The loss was the fifth in a row for the Mountaineers who own a 1-6 record and have one more game to play.

Valley High is the third W.M.I. League championship eleven turned out by Coach John Meyers in five years. He had winners at Central High in 1949 and 1950.

Brown's field goal, his tenth point of the season, practically assured him of the 1953 scoring title. His closest competitor is Thornton Robinette of Flintstone who has six points and only one more game to play.

Tom Robertson, John Wilson and Dale Kitzmiller of Valley High and Joe Carter, Jim Green, Kenny Johnson and Cleon Robertson of Beall were the outstanding players.

Flintstone's Aggies and Bruce's Bulldogs battled to a 1-1 deadlock in the other league contest at Flintstone. The tie enabled Flintstone to hold on to second place.

Both scores were made in the final period, Kip Montgomery registering for Bruce while Bob Davis accounted for Flintstone's tally.

Goalie Bennett, Harmon Heavner, Ken Lough and Jerry Slider played best for Flintstone while Dave Marple, Harry Foreman, Mike Nofsinger and Jim Cave were Bruce High's best bets.

Beall is scheduled to play a non-league game with Southern High of Oakland today at 3:30 o'clock in Frostburg.

Mrs. Bibby's Record Wins 12 Of 27 Titles

By C. V. BURNS

IT'S INTERESTING to note that since fall golf tournaments were inaugurated for women at the Cumberland Country Club in 1922 five three-year trophies have been offered by as many different donors and four have been won by Mrs. G. William Bibby.

Thirty-one years ago, Philip J. Arendes offered the first trophy for the club's woman champion. His daughter, Miss Jean Arendes, then dubbed the "Girl Wonder of Golf," came along and took her father's trophy back home by winning titles in 1925, 1926 and 1927.

Mrs. William J. Torrington offered a trophy to the champion in 1929 and Jean Arendes retired that in 1932.

Dr. Arthur H. Hawkins was the next trophy donor and Mrs. Jean Arendes Franklin copped it three straight years, 1935, 1936 and 1937.

Carroll Boggs put his trophy into competition in 1938 and four years later Mrs. Betty Hodges retired it.

There were no tournaments from 1943 through 1947 due to the war and gasoline rationing but in 1948 Morton Peskin's trophy was the prize. It became the permanent possession of Mrs. Jean Arendes Bibby this year when she won the third straight leg on it.

Mrs. Bibby's score stands at four trophies and 12 of the club championships in the 27-year history of women's golf at the CCC and that's a remarkable record.

FRANK C. WIMER, head coach of Elkins High School's football team, which plays Allegany here Friday night, is the dean of grid coaches in the tri-state area.

Wimer is rounding out his 29th season as football mentor at the Elkins school. He made his debut there in 1920. During the Second World War (1941 through 1945) he served as a major in the infantry and returned to Elkins to resume his coaching duties in 1946. Wimer Stadium at Elkins was named after him.

Among the many grid greats who learned their football under Wimer were Albert "Big Sleepy" Glenn West Virginia U., 1925 to 1927; Marshall "Little Sleepy" Glenn, who starred at West Virginia from 1927 to 1929 and coached the Mountaineers in 1937, 1938 and 1939, and last but not least the sensational Marshall "Biggie" Goldberg, Pitt's All-America back of 1938 who later starred in the National Football League with the Chicago Cardinals.

ELKINS and Allegany first met on the gridiron 32 years ago. It was the opening game of the 1921 season for Allegany on October 8 and the locals, coached by Fred "Ike" Mills suffered a 48-0 licking at Elkins.

Johnny Bruce quarterbacked that Allegany eleven and the other backs were Ralph "Doggie" Rice, "Red" Ayers and John Sperry. Other members of the squad were McDaniel, Wilkinson, Wilson, Brant, Cowden, Eyerman, Burns, Lakin, Hutcheson, Penrod, Wolfe and Barrett.

The schools did not meet on the gridiron again until Bob Pence put the Randolph County Tigers on the AHS schedule in 1949. In the past four years the Campers have won two, lost one and tied one.

The Tigers invade Cumberland with a 4-4 record. Allegany puts a 6-game winning streak on the line and owns an overall record of 6-1.

The first Allegany county school to play Elkins in football was Central High School of Lonaconing. They met in 1918 and Elkins won by the score of 110 to 10.

Clingerman's Wins, 2-1

Clingerman's scored a 2-1 win over Cresaptown Firemen in an Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League match last night.

Wilma Ware was high scorer for Cresaptown with 19 points. Virginia Fields paced the winners with 26.

Valley High School of Lonaconing won the championship of the W.M.I. Soccer League yesterday by defeating Beall High School at Frostburg in a 1-0 thriller which was decided in the second period on a field goal by Randall Brown, center forward, and leading point-getter in the five-club circuit.

Approximately 500 persons, the largest crowd of the season at Frostburg, saw the Black Knights win over a stubborn Mountaineer eleven. The victory was the sixth against one loss and one tie for Valley and gave the 'Coney school 13 points in the league standings. The loss was the fifth in a row for the Mountaineers who own a 1-6 record and have one more game to play.

Valley High is the third W.M.I. League championship eleven turned out by Coach John Meyers in five years. He had winners at Central High in 1949 and 1950.

Brown's field goal, his tenth point of the season, practically assured him of the 1953 scoring title. His closest competitor is Thornton Robinette of Flintstone who has six points and only one more game to play.

Tom Robertson, John Wilson and Dale Kitzmiller of Valley High and Joe Carter, Jim Green, Kenny Johnson and Cleon Robertson of Beall were the outstanding players.

Flintstone's Aggies and Bruce's Bulldogs battled to a 1-1 deadlock in the other league contest at Flintstone. The tie enabled Flintstone to hold on to second place.

Both scores were made in the final period, Kip Montgomery registering for Bruce while Bob Davis accounted for Flintstone's tally.

Goalie Bennett, Harmon Heavner, Ken Lough and Jerry Slider played best for Flintstone while Dave Marple, Harry Foreman, Mike Nofsinger and Jim Cave were Bruce High's best bets.

Beall is scheduled to play a non-league game with Southern High of Oakland today at 3:30 o'clock in Frostburg.

Frostburg State Teachers College lowered the curtain on a successful soccer season yesterday by battling the highly touted Grove City College varsity eleven to a 2-2 tie in two overtime periods at Grove City, Pa.

Coach Kenneth Babcock's Bobcats had won four consecutive games prior to yesterday's tie. The Mountain City eleven concluded its season with a record of five wins, one loss and two ties, one of the best showings in the history of the school.

The Teachers took a 2-0 lead in the third period when Ed Shuck headed in a goal after 16 minutes of play and Jerry Lancaster scored four minutes later. Grove City trailed 2-1 as the quarter ended following a penalty goal by Womber.

Frostburg remained out in front until two minutes before the final whistle in the regulation game when Womber booted a field goal to knot the count at two-all.

Both teams went scoreless in the two five-minute overtime stanzas.

Frostburg took 32 shots at the goal to Grove City's nine. The Bobcats had eight corner kicks and the Grovers two. Goalie Meadows of the home team made eight save at the uprights and Frostburg's Arnone handled six chances.

Sacrifice Fly Is Restored To Organized Ball

Committee Rejects Spitball Comeback

BY HOWARD SIGMAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(INS)—Organized baseball's rules committee tonight restored the sacrifice fly scoring a runner from third base, but rejected a proposal to bring back the spitball.

Meeting for the first time since March, 1951, the group, composed of major and minor league officials, voted a comeback for the regulation governing run-scoring flys to the outfield. The sacrifice fly had been abolished in 1940.

Will Boost Averages

As of this season, players who drive in a man from third with a fly out will not be credited with a time at bat. It will be scored as a run batted in and a sacrifice. It was pointed out to the committee that the rule will balloon batting averages.

But members of the group, citing figures of the 1938 and 1939 seasons, claimed that individual averages would not go up more than "seven or eight" points.

The rules committee is composed of Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox, Bill DeWitt of the Baltimore Orioles, Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians, George Fletcher of the Philadelphia Phillies, Fresco Thompson of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Jim Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs, Frank Shaughnessy of the International League, Larry Gilbert of the Southern Association and Milt Price of the Texas League.

Gallagher, acting as spokesman for the committee, disclosed that a "Mr. X" had proposed to bring back the spitball but the group had rejected the proposal. The member of the committee who made the suggestion refused to identify himself.

New Ruling On Gloves

A new rule was adopted whereby players will be required to take their gloves with them into the dugouts between innings; another new regulation permits the use of laminated wood bats. Other new rules include the abolishment of the running start on tagups after a fly ball and fielders will not be permitted to "deliberately" station themselves in a batter's line of vision.

Gallagher pointed out that most of the alterations concerned changes in wordage and that suggestions from thousands of fans had been considered by the committee.

Conference Ruling Against Bowl Games May Stop Mounties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Unbeaten-untied West Virginia, a strong possibility for an invitation to the Sugar Bowl, is ineligible under Southern Conference rules. But there may be a way out for the Mountaineers.

Sugar Bowl officials said today that West Virginia, the Nation's seventh ranking football team, is being considered for an invitation to the New Orleans New Year's Day game along with a number of other schools.

Max Farrington, Southern Conference commissioner, said the league rules prohibit any post season games for members, but that any "urgent" request would receive the consideration by the 10 member schools.

Farrington said, however, that West Virginia has not asked the conference for an "urgent" bowl ruling up to now.

Farrington said there has been support within the conference for an end to the ban on bowl games, but he would make no predictions on the matter.

Davey And Andrews Fight At Detroit

DETROIT, Nov. 3 (AP)—Chuck Davey faces possible fistic oblivion tomorrow night when he seeks revenge against Al Andrews, a promising newcomer, in a 10-round bout in Olympia Stadium.

A busy bee from Superior, Wis. Andrews floored Davey and won a unanimous 10-round decision in September at Saginaw, Mich. Another loss might drop Davey, a familiar TV figure, from the "big time" ranks.

Starting at 10 p. m. (EST), the bout will be broadcast and telecast nationally.

The fight is being called even at "6-5 pick 'em", but Davey is expected to be a slight favorite at ring time. The East Lansing, Mich., boxer has trained hard and long for this one, boxing more than 60 rounds in contrast to the mere 20 for the first Andrews go.

College Football Gets Warning To Clean Up Or Be Abolished

NCAA Prexy Charges Hypocrisy, Cheating

TALLADEGA, Ala., Nov. 3 (AP)—College football should be abolished "root and branch" unless it is cleansed of hyprocrisy, skulduggery and cheating," the head of the National Collegiate Athletic Association believes.

Dr. A. B. Moore, president of the NCAA and also faculty chairman of athletics for many years at the University of Alabama, said his organization "has only scratched the surface" in uncovering unethical practices in college football.

The NCAA head said he has seen "many of the benefits from intercollegiate athletics" and that he is advocating "operating on the patient and not killing him."

Moore, who also is dean of the graduate school at Alabama, made the charges in a speech before the Talladega Quarterback Club last night. Alabama has been a power in Southern football for many years.

The NCAA head said blame for current evils is shared by alumni, parents of athletes, coaches and college officials.

Parents, he said, tell their sons to "go to the school that'll pay you the most."

The NCAA, he continued, is hampered in its investigations because "everybody shuts up" when questions are asked.

"The alumni," Moore added "would rather go on cheating than expose others who are cheating. You may read that the NCAA has caught 10 or 12 schools. But not nearly enough is being done.

"I am speaking as one close to sports; one who loves sports; one engaged in and one who has been responsible for trying to train youths."

Moore said the Southeastern Conference's grant-in-aid program for athletes is not working because alumni insist on "under the table" assistance to players.

Frostburg State Teachers College lowered the curtain on a successful soccer season yesterday by battling the highly touted Grove City College varsity eleven to a 2-2 tie in two overtime periods at Grove City, Pa.

Coach Kenneth Babcock's Bobcats had won four consecutive games prior to yesterday's tie. The Mountain City eleven concluded its season with a record of five wins, one loss and two ties, one of the best showings in the history of the school.

Both teams went scoreless in the two five-minute overtime stanzas.

Frostburg took 32 shots at the goal to Grove City's nine. The Bobcats had eight corner kicks and the Grovers two. Goalie Meadows of the home team made eight save at the uprights and Frostburg's Arnone handled six chances.

Sacrifice Fly Is Restored To Organized Ball

Committee Rejects Spitball Comeback

BY HOWARD SIGMAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(INS)—Organized baseball's rules committee tonight restored the sacrifice fly scoring a runner from third base, but rejected a proposal to bring back the spitball.

Meeting for the first time since March, 1951, the group, composed of major and minor league officials, voted a comeback for the regulation governing run-scoring flys to the outfield. The sacrifice fly had been abolished in 1940.

Will Boost Averages

As of this season, players who drive in a man from third with a fly out will not be credited with a time at bat. It will be scored as a run batted in and a sacrifice. It was pointed out to the committee that the rule will balloon batting averages.

But members of the group, citing figures of the 1938 and 1939 seasons, claimed that individual averages would not go up more than "seven or eight" points.

The rules committee is composed of Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox, Bill DeWitt of the Baltimore Orioles, Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians, George Fletcher of the Philadelphia Phillies, Fresco Thompson of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Jim Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs, Frank Shaughnessy of the International League, Larry Gilbert of the Southern Association and Milt Price of the Texas League.

Gallagher, acting as spokesman for the committee, disclosed that a "Mr. X" had proposed to bring back the spitball but the group had rejected the proposal. The member of the committee who made the suggestion refused to identify himself.

New Ruling On Gloves

A new rule was adopted whereby players will be required to take their gloves with them into the dugouts between innings; another new regulation permits the use of laminated wood bats. Other new rules include the abolishment of the running start on tagups after a fly ball and fielders will not be permitted to "deliberately" station themselves in a batter's line of vision.

Gallagher pointed out that most of the alterations concerned changes in wordage and that suggestions from thousands of fans had been considered by the committee.

Dr. A. B. Moore, president of the NCAA and also faculty chairman of athletics for many years at the University of Alabama, said his organization "has only scratched the surface" in uncovering unethical practices in college football.

The NCAA head said he has seen "many of the benefits from intercollegiate athletics" and that he is advocating "operating on the patient and not killing him."

Moore, who also is dean of the graduate school at Alabama, made the charges in a speech before the Talladega Quarterback Club last night. Alabama has been a power in Southern football for many years.

The NCAA head said blame for current evils is shared by alumni, parents of athletes, coaches and college officials.

Parents, he said, tell their sons to "go to the school that'll pay you the most."

The NCAA, he continued, is hampered in its investigations because "everybody shuts up" when questions are asked.

"The alumni," Moore added "would rather go on cheating than expose others who are cheating. You may read that the NCAA has caught 10 or 12 schools. But not nearly enough is being done.

"I am speaking as one close to sports; one who loves sports; one engaged in and one who has been responsible for trying to train youths."

Moore said the Southeastern Conference's grant-in-aid program for athletes is not working because alumni insist on "under the table" assistance to players.

How well do you know your own face?

Have you ever noticed, for instance, that the two sides of your face are different—though they seem the same at first glance? (One eyebrow may be a little higher. Or you may have a dimple at only one corner of your mouth.)

The same is true of lots of things, even electricity. There's federal government electricity and there's company electricity like yours. They seem the same on the face of it. But there's a big difference:

Government Electricity goes first to certain favored groups; it pays little or no taxes; its rates are not regulated by state or local bodies; it is a step toward a federal government power monopoly—and socialism.

Company Electricity is available to everyone in the company area without discrimination; it pays taxes—federal, state and local; its rates are regulated by people chosen to represent you; it plays a key role in America's free enterprise system.

So it pays to look closely when things look the same. You'll often find differences. And in electricity, these differences affect you and your family very directly.

How well do you know your own face?

Have you ever noticed, for instance, that the two sides of your face are different—though they seem the same at first glance? (One eyebrow may be a little higher. Or you may have a dimple at only one corner of your mouth.)

The same is true of lots of things, even electricity. There's federal government electricity and there's company electricity like yours. They seem the same on the face of it. But there's a big difference:

Government Electricity goes first to certain favored groups; it pays little or no taxes; its rates are not regulated by state or local bodies; it is a step toward a federal government power monopoly—and socialism.

Company Electricity is available to everyone in the company area without discrimination; it pays taxes—federal, state and local; its rates are regulated by people chosen to represent you; it plays a key role in America's free enterprise system.

So it pays to look closely when things look the same. You'll often find differences. And in electricity, these differences affect you and your family very directly.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3 (INS) — Terry Moore's great hobby always has been piloting planes. Now it's going to stand her in good stead in "Jumping Sisters," an original story by Virginia Kellogg, which 20th bought.

Virginia, who also writes the script, leaves for Canada next week where the film will be shot with the cooperation of the Royal Canadian Air Force and other Canadian government agencies.

Producer Sam Engel says it's the story of a paratroop rescue team comprised of a doctor, a corpsman and a woman nurse, who jump by parachute to help victims of a crash.

I know you're asking what the "sisters" in the title means. Well, it's the British term for nurses. The picture will be in Cinemascope and Technicolor.

All this talk about Kathryn Grayson being a recluse is a lot of—shall we say, applesauce. All the time this and that report has been going on that Katie's health is bad and that she isn't seeing people, she has been studying La Boheme with the idea of doing the popular Puccini opera for the San Francisco Opera Company next season.

"I had supper with Howard Skinner, head of the San Francisco Opera Company," Katie told me, "and since I started out to be an opera singer, I want to accept his offer. Later, I will do Traviata."

Still another Hollywood actor is off to Broadway—Robert Ryan, no less, for Shakespeare's "Coriolanus" to be produced and directed by another Hollywooder, John Houseman.

Last season all our stars were flocking to Europe. Now it's Broadway luring them, particularly after the success of Deborah Kerr, Charles Boyer and David Wayne.

Norris Houghton and T. Edward Hambleton, forme the Phoenix Theatre organization to present this and other plays.

Although it's Shakespeare, "Coriolanus" is another he-man role for Ryan, that of a Roman general expelled from Rome because he fought for the abolition of democratic government.

Tonight Linda Christian Power flies to Washington to be with Tyrone on the anniversary of their meeting November 5, 1947. She goes with him to Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York.

There have been rumors that she was having marital trouble, and to this Linda said: "I talked to Ty four times yesterday and we talk practically every day. How could such rumors be, when I have a small baby, too?"

I had to remind her that as long as the world goes on there will always be gossip even about things that are untrue.

Burt Lancaster is back in the hospital with his bad leg. He spent his birthday there, thereby losing out on a surprise birthday party Mrs. L had arranged.

At the Harlequin, Brenda and Bill Holden were having dinner with the Billy Wilders and Audrey Hepburn. Bill and Audrey are in "Sabrina Fair."

Saw Judy Garland, Sid Luft and Jean Simmons all having dinner at Chasen's. Jean seemed happy as a lark.

Twenty-year-old Jill Schaefer, daughter of Armand Schaefer, who produces the Gene Autry pictures, was married this afternoon at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas. Her bridegroom is William Shephard, an Army private who is slated for overseas duty soon.

Lance Reventlow, Barbara Hutton's son, has registered for the spring term at USC. Lance, who always adored Cary Grant, wants to become an actor.

Our Little Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills had the pleasure of having Senator McCarthy and his bride there at mass Sunday.

Bob McLaughlin has been resting at the ranch in Palm Springs getting ready for his divorce battle with Jeri Sullivan, expected to be a bitter one.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

California ranks first in national forests with more than 25 million acres, says the National Geographic Society. Idaho, Alaska, Montana and Oregon follow in that order.

An "office" at home is a great aid to the woman who must handle and discharge numerous details.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

When confronted with the sight of a woman digging into her purse for her car keys or lipstick, men are apt to smugly comment on clutter as a feminine characteristic. Men feel that they are masters of organization while women are perfect examples of disorganization.

In the matter of purse incidents, I think it is only fair to admit that women have one perfect comeback. In any suit, even without a vest, a man has nine pockets in which to organize or file what he carries about — while a woman's purse is frequently her "one 9 pocket."

But what about in the home? Though you have a place for everything and everything in its place, how well-organized are those places? Are you taxing your memory with too many details? If so, you open yourself up to the accusation of "disorganized" thinking.

Your Home "Office"

This drawer may be in the kitchen and the calendar may be placed on the counter above it. It may be a drawer in your bedroom vanity. Or, if you have a desk, naturally that is the logical place.

At most stationary counters you can get a supply of manila folders. Label these according to the way you live and the details of living that you must handle. Typical subjects in most homes are "current bills," "receipts," "taxes," "insurance." If you are an avid reader, one might be "magazines," in which you keep a record of renewal dates. "Projects" might be another heading and so might "vacation ideas." Certainly everyone needs a folder for "correspondence."

Memory Relief

On your calendar, jot down every appointment you make. Also write the due dates on bills, taxes, etc. Jot down all birthdays and anniversaries that you wish to remember. Then — and this is most important — each day, at some time, sit down in your "office" and tear off the current day, disposing of any duties noted there. At the same time think of the days just ahead and make additional notations of your plans. If meal planning is one of your tasks, each day's sheet can be used as a menu outline and shopping guide.

While you are so seated, take a run through your file folders. Make sure you are not overlooking something of importance.

Through just these simple steps, you can relieve your mind of much unnecessary detail and bring order to what freqeuntly appears to be a disorganized way of life. It makes many chores easier to tackle and dispense with quickly. That leaves your mind free for the big, broad and interesting problems of life!

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge ... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3 (INS) — Terry Moore's great hobby always has been piloting planes. Now it's going to stand her in good stead in "Jumping Sisters," an original story by Virginia Kellogg, which 20th bought.

Virginia, who also writes the script, leaves for Canada next week where the film will be shot with the cooperation of the Royal Canadian Air Force and other Canadian government agencies.

Producer Sam Engel says it's the story of a paratroop rescue team comprised of a doctor, a corpsman and a woman nurse, who jump by parachute to help victims of a crash.

I know you're asking what the "sisters" in the title means. Well, it's the British term for nurses. The picture will be in Cinemascope and Technicolor.

All this talk about Kathryn Grayson being a recluse is a lot of—shall we say, applesauce. All the time this and that report has been going on that Katie's health is bad and that she isn't seeing people, she has been studying La Boheme with the idea of doing the popular Puccini opera for the San Francisco Opera Company next season.

"I had supper with Howard Skinner, head of the San Francisco Opera Company," Katie told me, "and since I started out to be an opera singer, I want to accept his offer. Later, I will do Traviata."

Still another Hollywood actor is off to Broadway—Robert Ryan, no less, for Shakespeare's "Coriolanus" to be produced and directed by another Hollywooder, John Houseman.

Last season all our stars were flocking to Europe. Now it's Broadway luring them, particularly after the success of Deborah Kerr, Charles Boyer and David Wayne.

Norris Houghton and T. Edward Hambleton, forme the Phoenix Theatre organization to present this and other plays.

Although it's Shakespeare, "Coriolanus" is another he-man role for Ryan, that of a Roman general expelled from Rome because he fought for the abolition of democratic government.

Tonight Linda Christian Power flies to Washington to be with Tyrone on the anniversary of their meeting November 5, 1947. She goes with him to Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York.

There have been rumors that she was having marital trouble, and to this Linda said: "I talked to Ty four times yesterday and we talk practically every day. How could such rumors be, when I have a small baby, too?"

I had to remind her that as long as the world goes on there will always be gossip even about things that are untrue.

At the Harlequin, Brenda and Bill Holden were having dinner with the Billy Wilders and Audrey Hepburn. Bill and Audrey are in "Sabrina Fair."

Twenty-year-old Jill Schaefer, daughter of Armand Schaefer, who produces the Gene Autry pictures, was married this afternoon at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas. Her bridegroom is William Shephard, an Army private who is slated for overseas duty soon.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

California ranks first in national forests with more than 25 million acres, says the National Geographic Society. Idaho, Alaska, Montana and Oregon follow in that order.

An "office" at home is a great aid to the woman who must handle and discharge numerous details.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

When confronted with the sight of a woman digging into her purse for her car keys or lipstick, men are apt to smugly comment on clutter as a feminine characteristic. Men feel that they are masters of organization while women are perfect examples of disorganization.

In the matter of purse incidents, I think it is only fair to admit that women have one perfect comeback. In any suit, even without a vest, a man has nine pockets in which to organize or file what he carries about — while a woman's purse is frequently her "one 9 pocket."

But what about in the home? Though you have a place for everything and everything in its place, how well-organized are those places? Are you taxing your memory with too many details? If so, you open yourself up to the accusation of "disorganized" thinking.

Your Home "Office"

It is a relatively simple matter to rid yourself of many details that you remember unnecessarily.

It's a matter of making one spot in your home an "office." All it takes is a drawer large enough to carry a few file holders and a calendar of the "day-by-day" type.

This drawer may be in the kitchen and the calendar may be placed on the counter above it. It may be a drawer in your bedroom vanity. Or, if you have a desk, naturally that is the logical place.

At most stationary counters you can get a supply of manila folders. Label these according to the way you live and the details of living that you must handle. Typical subjects in most homes are "current bills," "receipts," "taxes," "insurance." If you are an avid reader, one might be "magazines," in which you keep a record of renewal dates. "Projects" might be another heading and so might "vacation ideas." Certainly everyone needs a folder for "correspondence."

Memory Relief

On your calendar, jot down every appointment you make. Also write the due dates on bills, taxes, etc. Jot down all birthdays and anniversaries that you wish to remember. Then — and this is most important — each day, at some time, sit down in your "office" and tear off the current day, disposing of any duties noted there. At the same time, think of the days just ahead and make additional notations of your plans. If meal planning is one of your tasks, each day's sheet can be used as a menu outline and shopping guide.

While you are so seated, take a run through your file folders. Make sure you are not overlooking something of importance.

Through just these simple steps, you can relieve your mind of much unnecessary detail and bring order to what freqeuntly appears to be a disorganized way of life. It makes many chores easier to tackle and dispense with quickly. That leaves your mind free for the big, broad and interesting problems of life!

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Radio And Television by John Crosby

The Reluctant Hucksters

In last week's "Variety," Abel Green, the editor, made some rather pointed and, I'm afraid, sound observations about the huckstering which all the major TV and screen stars are doing these days.

"Humphrey Bogart sure looked, acted and sounded like he was selling his SAG, Equity, AFTRA, Masquers and Romanoff's cards down the river for whatever was his fee to foil for Jack Benny on the latter's Sunday night CBS-TVer for Lucky Strike doing that LSMFT commercial with all the ease and aplomb of a politician caught on Joey Fay's 'calling card list,'" declared Mr. Green whose editorials fairly splutter with indignation.

John Crosby

"This brings to a head a sequence of personal pitchmen routines by the greats of show business which makes the yesteryear medicine men peddling their snake oil look like diplomats. Virtually every star has succumbed to the blandishments of personal agents and/or agencies to "personally sell the merchandise.' Ever since Gabriel Heatter went from 'there's good news tonight' to not-so-good-news about the 10 temporary Nazi conquests to huckstering Vitalis—and doing the latter so successfully—the sponsoring underwriters of radio and TV shows have encouraged the personal pitch by the show's stars. Today there isn't a personality whose real-life pseudo-endorsement isn't integrated into the commercial."

Knowing Bogart, I suspect he did the Benny commercial for laughs as much as for money and most Benny commercials—I didn't see that one—have the saving grace of being pretty funny. But the rest of the complaint is valid enough. The greatest names in show business have been conned into selling soap and by so doing have dimmed their luster quite a lot.

This is not entirely the fault of the actor either. There is very little they can do about it. Some time ago when I voiced a complaint similar to Mr. Green's, I got a letter from an actor on the subject. To protect him from ad agency wrath, I'll have to keep his name quiet but you ought to know that he's a very prominent stage and screen star.

"I read your piece a few days ago," he wrote, "about actors doing commercials on television, and while I found myself in agreement with much that you said, I do think that someone should enter a word in defense of our profession.

"I happen to know something about this situation—which I deplore just as much as you—because I have recently been involved in negotiations for the making of a television series on film. Before a pilot film was made and before the producing company would even talk a deal, my assurance was demanded that I would do commercials.

"It has been explained to me by the William Morris agency, one of the most important in the business, that when they go in to make a sale to a possible sponsor the first question that sponsor asks—before he asks about the material, the name of the star, or even the length of the program—is: 'Will the star do the commercials?' A negative answer or even a qualified one will stop all further discussion.

"Personally I feel so strongly that it is wrong for serious actors of any reputation to try to become barkers, and indeed that their audience does not like them to do so, that I wrote to the council of the Screen Actors Guild to ask if some protective clause could not be inserted in the standard contract. The Guild replied that as television was strictly a commercial medium they did not think they could intervene.

"So what is the actor to do? Movies, like the stage, offer very few opportunities for employment today. If he wants to eat, the actor must be willing to sell, and apparently that's that!"

I hope that is not that. An actor's job is to act. Selling is somebody else's—notably the ad agencies—who ought to do their own work.

CORRECT YOUR MISTAKE

FORTUNATE is the declarer who, having lacked the foresight to make the right play in the beginning noted later a way whereby he could overcome his mistake. Not every player is able to see how that can be done, even when the opportunity is available to him. Many, in such a spot, are prone to reflect upon the early bad move and not think about a means of extricating themselves from the difficulty they have manufactured.

Several of the declarers in a big duplicate made the right play when West led the heart K. Q and A ruffing the third round with the spade J. That enabled them to have sure entry to dummy, since the spade Q was in the West, by leading the suit twice toward the 10. The diamond 9 finesse, followed by one of the diamond Q and a drop of the K by the Q then assured the contract.

Some of the South players used the spade 8 to ruff the third heart. Some of these next scored the spade A and club A, then led the spade 9, hoping East had the Q and would not play it. Nobody was lucky enough to find a defender so foolish, as the Q came right in on the 8 and the heart 8 was returned. South having to use a high trump to over-ruff East's 7. With no way to reach the dummy, those declarers had to lead diamonds from the closed hand, so went down a trick.

One declarer, who made the error of ruffing low, found a very simple way to recover from his own wound. He laid down both black aces and the spade K before leading the J for West to win. That worthy then found that a heart or club lead would be won in the dummy, so tried his diamond 7. That enabled South to finesse the 9 just as well as if he had led it from the dummy himself, so he made the contract.

The Reluctant Hucksters

In last week's "Variety," Abel Green, the editor, made some rather pointed and, I'm afraid, sound observations about the huckstering which all the major TV and screen stars are doing these days.

John Crosby

"Humphrey Bogart sure looked, acted and sounded like he was selling his SAG, Equity, AFTRA, Masquers and Romanoff's cards down the river for whatever was his fee to foil for Jack Benny on the latter's Sunday night CBS-TVer for Lucky Strike doing that LSMFT commercial with all the ease and aplomb of a politician caught on Joey Fay's 'calling card list,'" declared Mr. Green whose editorials fairly splutter with indignation.

"This brings to a head a sequence of personal pitchmen routines by the greats of show business which makes the yesteryear medicine men peddling their snake oil look like diplomats. Virtually every star has succumbed to the blandishments of personal agents and/or agencies to "personally sell the merchandise.' Ever since Gabriel Heatter went from 'there's good news tonight' to not-so-good-news about the 10 temporary Nazi conquests to huckstering Vitalis—and doing the latter so successfully—the sponsoring underwriters of radio and TV shows have encouraged the personal pitch by the show's stars. Today there isn't a personality whose real-life pseudo-endorsement isn't integrated into the commercial."

Knowing Bogart, I suspect he did the Benny commercial for laughs as much as for money and most Benny commercials—I didn't see that one—have the saving grace of being pretty funny. But the rest of the complaint is valid enough. The greatest names in show business have been conned into selling soap and by so doing have dimmed their luster quite a lot.

This is not entirely the fault of the actor either. There is very little they can do about it. Some time ago when I voiced a complaint similar to Mr. Green's, I got a letter from an actor on the subject. To protect him from ad agency wrath, I'll have to keep his name quiet but you ought to know that he's a very prominent stage and screen star.

"I read your piece a few days ago," he wrote, "about actors doing commercials on television, and while I found myself in agreement with much that you said, I do think that someone should enter a word in defense of our profession.

"I happen to know something about this situation—which I deplore just as much as you—because I have recently been involved in negotiations for the making of a television series on film. Before a pilot film was made and before the producing company would even talk a deal, my assurance was demanded that I would do commercials.

"It has been explained to me by the William Morris agency, one of the most important in the business, that when they go in to make a sale to a possible sponsor the first question that sponsor asks—before he asks about the material, the name of the star, or even the length of the program—is: 'Will the star do the commercials?' A negative answer or even a qualified one will stop all further discussion.

"Personally I feel so strongly that it is wrong for serious actors of any reputation to try to become barkers, and indeed that their audience does not like them to do so, that I wrote to the council of the Screen Actors Guild to ask if some protective clause could not be inserted in the standard contract. The Guild replied that as television was strictly a commercial medium they did not think they could intervene.

"So what is the actor to do? Movies, like the stage, offer very few opportunities for employment today. If he wants to eat, the actor must be willing to sell, and apparently that's that!"

I hope that is not that. An actor's job is to act. Selling is somebody else's—notably the ad agencies—who ought to do their own work.

To the people of the Orient and South Pacific the wor. food means one thing: rice. But rice has many, many other uses. Besides being eaten, rice is worn as a cosmetic, drunk as a beverage, treasured as a medicine, honored as a god, slept on as a mat, burned as a fuel, molded into a home as plaster and straw board.

Valley Street Bridge To Be Built In 1954

City To Ask Bids Soon On First Of Three New Wills Creek Spans

Construction of the $258,700 Valley Street Bridge, the first of three spans to be replaced with modern structures during the course of Flood Control work, will get under way next February, according to plans made yesterday afternoon by the Mayor and Council.

Tentative agreement was also reached, at a conference with officials of the J. E. Greiner Company, designer of the span, to proceed with plans for the Market and Baltimore Street bridges, and to start construction of the Market Street bridge as soon as the Valley Street span is opened for traffic late next year.

Plans were made at the conference to introduce a number of orders at Monday's Council meeting. These are expected to include:

An order officially accepting the final plans for the Valley Street bridge.

An order authorizing the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property to advertise for bids for the Valley Street bridge.

Preliminary plans have been prepared for all three spans which will be built in connection with Wills Creek channel improvement by the Corps of Engineers.

R. A. Gilmore, project chief, and J. W. Hughen, of the Greiner Company, explained plans for the bridges yesterday at a meeting attended by Mayor Roy W. Eves and Commissioners Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, William V. Keegan and John J. Long, C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, and Thomas B. Finan, city attorney.

To Cost $258,700

The Greiner officials estimated the Valley Street Bridge will cost about $258,700, based on present-day construction costs.

Early estimates of the other spans included $172,000 for the Market Street Bridge and $198,000 for the Baltimore Street Bridge.

But Gilmore said the estimates for the latter two spans were made in 1952 and that about 15 per cent should be added to get today's cost.

The bridges will be built with funds set aside by the city and county for the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Program.

May Seek Funds

Since these funds will run short, due to increased costs, the Corps of Engineers may ask the city to advance more funds to finish the project.

When the Flood Control project was planned more than a decade ago, the $2½ millions of local funds asked included $135,000 for necessary modifications to the three Wills Creek bridges. Escalated for today's costs, the original work would cost $350,000 today.

The bridges planned by the city, however, are modern spans which have been modified to meet the needs of a greater Cumberland.

The Valley Street Bridge, for instance, will have a 34-foot roadway and a five-foot sidewalk, to replace the obsolete span built 40 years ago and badly damaged by an explosion about 10 years ago.

No Delay Foreseen

Nuzum pointed out that if the spans were not replaced, the city would face an expensive job of "gunniting" the exterior of the spans, where the concrete is badly weathered.

The Greiner work estimates for the Valley Street span call for work to get underway in February and to be completed in November.

Officials said there will be no delay in securing steel or for any other material needed for the span.

Tentative plans call for having final plans and specifications for the Market Street Bridge ready so that job could get under way as soon as the Valley Street span is opened for traffic late next fall.

Market, as Valley Street, can be done independently of the flood work in Wills Creek channel.

Street To Be Closed

The firm's plan for letting the Valley Street Bridge job has been timed so all the work will fall in one construction year, keeping the bridge out of service for a minimum time.

The Baltimore Street Bridge, Gilmore said, should be undertaken when the channel improvement reaches that spot, and must be tied in with the replacement of the Western Maryland Railway bridge at Baltimore Street.

Keeping traffic moving during the Baltimore Street Bridge work, he estimated, would cost the city about $30,000 extra.

Tide Is Turned In Registration Rolls Of City

26 New Voters Placed On Books

Twenty-six persons were added to the voting rolls in Cumberland last month to bring total registration to the 14,492 mark.

The 26 new voters, the highest number to be added for many months, represented a net increase of only 15 voters, since the names of 11 known dead were stricken off the rolls.

The new voters included 11 white males, one colored male and 14 white women.

Thirteen other voters came in to the registration office in the basement of City Hall to make changes in address, precinct or name.

City-County Mix-up

A number of those who came to City Hall to inquire why they did not receive voters registration cards, which are being issued by the county, found they were not registered in the city and promptly did so.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, city registration clerk, said the city issues cards only to newly registered voters. These cards, like those being issued by the county, do not give one the right to vote, but are evidence that one has registered.

The city's voting rolls have been dropping each month during the past year as new registrants dip below the reduction due to deaths, which have been averaging about 11 voters a month.

Approaches Bed Rock

When the city started its continuous registration system in the fall of 1951, there were 21,516 persons registered.

Revisions made while the system was set up resulted in the dropping of 6,791 names. This was countered by 1,194 new registrants, to bring city voting rolls to the 15,680 mark in the 1952 city elections.

Early this year, the rolls took another sharp dip as the names of 1,107 persons who had not voted for five years were stricken off.

Next year's primary will be held on Tuesday, June 1, and the city election will follow on June 15. New city officials will be installed early in July.

Blood Donors Give 245 Pints

Allegany County donors contributed 245 pints of blood during the two-day visit of the bloodmobile unit from Johnstown (Pa.) Regional Headquarters.

Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, recruitment chairman for the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, reported 110 pints were collected yesterday and 135 pints were donated Monday.

Local Red Cross officials pointed out that the 245 productive pints collected during the two-day November visit was 55 pints short of the 300-pint monthly quota for this area.

According to Mrs. Helmrich, only 89 donors of the 170 scheduled kept their appointments yesterday. There were an additional 56 "walk-ins" who came to the unit location at the Eagles Home, but because of rejections only 110 pints were collected from the 145 persons who visited the unit.

News In Brief

A spaghetti supper will be held from 5 until 7 tonight in the social hall of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, 407 North Mechanic Street, sponsored by Circle 2 of the Guild.

Two AWOL servicemen listed as Wallace Malamphy, city, and Damon Gibson of Ohio were taken into custody Monday night and held for military authorities.

Salvation Army Fund Campaign Has $13,263.88

Classified Section Reports $845 Raised

The classified section of the Salvation Army fund campaign made its first report at a meeting held at the Citadel last night and with additional reports from the advance gifts committee brought the total raised to $13,263.88 following the first week of the drive.

Divided into three sections headed by captains Paul Pickens, Albert Macy and William P. Wendt, the classified group reported $845.13 raised since the kickoff dinner Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Individual returns by advance gifts committeemen added to the $10,650.75 reported last week brought the total to $12,193.75, just $1,806.25 short of the advance gifts goal of $14,000.

Many Returns Still Out

The classified group, divided into automotive, construction, public service, finance and insurance, food and drug, clothing, professional, office supply and public employment bodies fell somewhat short of its intended goal for the first week, but many of the solicitors reported most of their returns were still to come in.

The classified teams are striving for a goal of $5,000.

A duplication of figures in the first advance gifts report reduced the amount from an original $11,195.75 to $10,650.75, Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commanding officer of the Citadel said last night.

Adolf Blunk, general chairman of the drive, told the 27 persons who attended the meeting that though the report was a little under the hoped-for $14,000 the $2,388.13 returned after just a week of work was a "marvelous job by classified section in that short time."

Response Termed Good

One solicitor reported he had received very good response from most of the business establishments he visited and added he felt the drive had a good chance of success.

Rev. Seth Morrow, member of the advisory board to the Salvation Army, reported he felt the response had been "terrific."

Blunk told the group the next meeting will be held at the Citadel Friday at 7:30 p. m. for both classified and advance gifts committees.

Civil Service Exam Being Planned By Fire Department

A Civil Service examination for lieutenant and captain positions in the Cumberland Fire Department will be held within the next two weeks, according to Virgil A. Parker, fire chief.

At least five years of service are required for a fireman to be eligible to take the examination which will be given at City Hall under direction of Mrs. Leah Hafer, chairman of the Civil Service Board.

Parker last night said about 15 men now serving in the department would be eligible.

The test is being held to fill the vacancy created when Captain Robert Leo Reichert, of East Side, submitted his resignation. Reichert plans to move to Orlando, Fla.

Police Release Slashing Victim

Arthur C. Westfall Jr., 30, of 600-block Elm Street, arrested after he slashed his left wrist and arm, was released yesterday afternoon following questioning in the State's Attorney's Office.

He was arrested yesterday morning by police after he had been treated for a number of lacerations on the wrist and arm at Memorial Hospital.

Authorities said Westfall slashed himself with a paring knife and razor blade at his home because of "domestic troubles." He was found in the bathroom bleeding profusely.

Authorities applied a tourniquet and took Westfall to the hospital after they had been notified by A. H. Burns, who had noticed Westfall lying on Williams Street earlier.

The State's Attorney's Office pressed no charges against Westfall, a B&O brakeman.

Rummage Sale Set

The Gleaners Class of St. Luke's Lutheran Church will hold a rummage sale Friday at 6:30 p. m. in the church basement.

River Flow Here During October Is Below Normal

Savage Dam Supplies Over Half Of Water

Water released from the Savage River Dam during October supplied an average of 56 per cent of the flow in the Potomac River here, according to figures released yesterday by Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge of the Cumberland office of the Geological Survey, U. S. Department of Interior.

Water released throughout the month to sustain the flow in the Potomac River caused an average increase of 44 million gallons per day in the river flow. During the first part of October, about 70 per cent of the flow was water released from Savage River Reservoir.

Beall said the mean daily flow at Cumberland was 78.6 per cent below normal. Flow during October averaged 123 cubic feet per second or 79 million gallons per day.

The river's daily flow varied between 143 cubic feet per second, 92 million gallons per day, on October 29 and 30, and 116 cubic feet per second, 75 million gallons per day, on October 7, 8, 10, 11 and 14.

The Weather Bureau reported that total precipitation at Cumberland was 0.87 inches, or 1.66 inches below the October normal. The average daily temperature was 57.8 degrees, which was 3.1 degrees above normal for the month.

Beall pointed out that under normal conditions of rainfall, the average natural runoff of the Potomac River here, except as modified by the operation of Savage River Dam, would be expected to be about 305 cubic feet per second or 52 per cent of the normal for November.

However, under adverse conditions of little or no rainfall, the natural flow would be expected to drop to about 115 cubic feet per second or 19 per cent of normal.

Low flows in particular, Beall said, are subject to augmentation by releases from Savage River Reservoir and these natural minimums are not expected to be experienced.

With Savage River Dam releases considered and with little or no rainfall, the mean flow of the Potomac River would probably only drop to about 125 cubic feet per second or 21 per cent of the November normal.

Cross-Country Woman Walker Stops In City

A thirtyish California woman, who identified herself only as a "Pilgrim For Peace," yesterday walked through Cumberland in a cross-country journey that is taking her from Los Angeles to Washington and New York.

The woman said that she is devoting the entire year to her cross-country journey and averages about 25 miles a day while walking.

She plans to call on President Eisenhower in Washington, presenting him a petition asking him to work for disarmament and for the establishment of a Secretary of Peace in his cabinet. She also will visit the United Nations in New York to seek a concerted effort forworld disarmament. While here she was interviewed by a local radio station.

W. Va. Forest Fires Reported

Two more forest fires were reported in nearby West Virginia yesterday and District Forester Tilden Norris at Romney said they burned over a total of about 24 acres.

One in Mineral County, between Keyser and Piedmont, burned some 20 acres near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad right-of-way. The other burned four acres on North Mountain in Berkeley County, not far from Martinsburg.

Norris reported that these and five other district fires all are being watched but are under control. Since the hunting season was opened in West Virginia last week, the district forester said that the number and intensity of fires has increased appreciably. Many have been blamed on hunters illegally smoking squirrels out of trees.

Rep. Hyde Calls Experience Interesting, Frustrating

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, from Maryland's Sixth Congressional District, yesterday told the Cumberland Rotary Club that his first year as a freshman Congressman proved most interesting but also most frustrating.

The Congressman told the Rotarians at their luncheon meeting at Central YMCA that only about 10 to 15 per cent of his time was devoted to what he thought he was supposed to do before he was elected. He considered studying proposed legislation and helping to get it passed his primary function before he was elected.

"I found that I was an errand boy during much of the rest of the time, representing my constituents in all sorts of matters involving them and the Federal Government and some that didn't even involve the government," Rep. Hyde stated. "I know that these duties must be filled by any Congressman who hopes to get re-elected," he added.

After his election, the 44-year-old Congressman said, the first thing he did was to consult with his predecessor, now Senator J. Glenn Beall. Then, he got himself a good secretary, Miss Ann Smith, who had served three other Congressmen in similar capacities.

Got Desired Appointment

"Miss Smith's value was proved when it came to getting office space," Hyde told the Rotarians. "There are only 433 offices for the 435 Congressmen. That means that all freshmen Congressmen had to draw to get priority for their offices. Miss Smith, acting in my behalf, drew No. 4," Hyde explained.

The new Congressman, who comes from Montgomery County, said that he then found himself in the midst of a great battle for choice committee assignments.

"As an attorney I wanted to serve on the judiciary committee and with the assistance of mutual friends who knew some of the Republican leaders in the House of Representatives I managed to get the appointment," Hyde continued.

Because of the proximity of his district to Washington, the Congressman also found it expedient for him to serve on the district committee.

There was no class on learning the ropes for new Congressmen. All freshmen Congressmen did form an "83rd Club," which met monthly. Appropriately, the first speaker before this club was the House parliamentarian.

Committees Wield Power

Rep. Hyde also told his listeners that the major work in Congress is done in committees and that what takes place on the floor of the House is primarily "window dressing." He also found it wise to

Ridgeley Legion Decides Against Changing Name

A majority vote of members of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion of Ridgeley, last night defeated a resolution to rename the post in honor of William E. Shuck Jr. a 26-year-old Ridgeley Marine sergeant killed in Korea, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for heroism.

The resolution was turned down on a vote of 15 to 12 on the grounds the renaming the Legion post might create ill feeling among the families of 12 other Ridgeley service men who died in World War II.

At the same time, however, Legion members passed a motion to erect a plaque at Ridgeley High School in memorial to S/Sgt. Shuck. The plaque, to be made in bronze or brass, will be inscribed with the words of the official citation which accompanied presentation of the nation's highest award to Shuck's wife, Mrs. William E. Shuck Jr., of Waukegan, Ill., September 9.

Ridgeley Legionnaires also voted to set up a citizenship award to be given to a student of each graduating class at Ridgeley High School in memory of Sgt. Shuck. Selection of the award winner will be carried out by the school faculty and a committee from the Legion.

The sportsmanship award, given annually by the Ridgeley post to a school student, will now be given as a memorial to the dead of World War II. This motion was also passed last night.

Post officers pointed out that Shuck was the only Ridgeley man to die in the Korean War. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shuck Sr., 44 Carpenter Avenue, Ridgeley.

Sgt. Shuck was killed July 3, 1952 while aiding other wounded Marines in combat in Korea. In the words of the official citation, "He gallantly gave his life for his country."

Chanuko, Feast Of Lights, To Be Marked By Jews Of Cumberland During December

Chanuko, the Feast of Lights, will be observed by Jews of Cumberland December 2 through December 9.

Chanuko, which means dedication, goes back more than 2,100 years when Judea was under the dominion of a Syrian monarch named Antiochus, who sought to coerce the Jews into the worship of idols.

Led by the famed Maccabeans, the Jews resisted and, after years of guerilla warfare, routed the enemy and rededicated the temple in Jerusalem which had been desecrated by the pagans.

A special party for children of Beth Jacob Congregation will be observed on December 6, according to Rabbi Joseph Schimelman. Refreshments will be served by the Women's League and a program of entertainment will be held.

The story of Chanuko is recounted in the Books of the Maccabees, which form part of the post-Biblical collection of semi-sacred literature known as the Apocrypha.

A gift-giving holiday, Chanuko is celebrated for eight days. In synagogues and homes special prayers and hymns touching upon freedom of worship are sung. The chief ritual connected with the holiday is the kindling of the lights in a special candelabrum, or menorah.

Each night an additional candle is lighted to symbolize growing support for the cause of religious liberty.

Early Morning Fire Destroys Shephard Home

Cresaptown Family Escapes Blaze Unhurt

An early morning blaze which apparently started in the chimney destroyed the 75-year-old residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dewey Shephard, near Cresaptown, yesterday.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Shephard and three children who live at home were able to escape without injury but the family was unable to save its belongings before the fast-spreading flames consumed the building.

Volunteer firemen from Cresaptown and LaVale answered the 7:20 a. m. alarm but were unable to bring the fire under control because of lack of water from Warrior Run, a nearby creek which was almost dry.

Pumpers from five trucks poured some water on the flames, firemen said, and water was brought to the scene in tank trucks but too late to save the six-room, two-story frame house.

The Shephard home was a landmark in the Cresaptown area and was located near the former Gaither quarry off Winchester Road about a half-mile from Cresaptown.

Father Rescues Son

Mrs. Shephard had arisen to prepare breakfast for the family, authorities said, and had returned upstairs to awaken her husband, their twin daughters, Doris and Dorothy, 11, and son Dickie, 13. Shephard discovered smoke pouring through the bedroom floor from below when he entered Dickie's room. Shephard returned to the boy's room to awaken him, while the mother and daughters hurried downstairs. The father picked up his drowsy son and carried him down the stairway to the outside through rooms rapidly filling with smoke.

Mrs. Shephard sent one of the children to the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Metz, who live about 200 yards from the Shephards, to give the alarm. The Metzes called the fire company immediately.

Children Attend School

When firemen arrived a few minutes later, smoke already was billowing from around the rooftop. Extreme heat inside the building made it impossible for firemen to remove more than a few items from the porch, including the washing machine.

Lack of sufficient water kept firemen virtually helpless and the fire broke through to gut the building within an hour. When the fire finally was extinguished only two badly charred walls of the kitchen remained standing.

Despite the misfortune which struck so suddenly, the three Shephard children, who all attend school in Cresaptown, attended classes for the day while their parents made preparations to move in with another daughter, Mrs. Curtis Cox, Cresaptown.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in an outside chimney which has both cooking and heating stoves attached.

The Shephards said the house was insured. No official estimate of the damage was made.

LaVale Firemen Answer 3 Calls

The worst of three fires they fought occurred early yesterday morning at Cresaptown, when they assisted firemen of that community in combatting a blaze which destroyed the six-room home of the Louis D. Shephard family.

After returning from that fire the volunteers checked a blaze near the Tri-State Roofing Company warehouse in LaVale. The quick action of the firemen kept the fire from spreading to a field and threatening homes in that section.

Someone was reported burning trash and as the fire got out of control a pile of discarded tar and shingles ignited near the warehouse. Firemen said 500 feet of hose was used in combatting the flames. Both trucks of LaVale fire company and 10 volunteers went to the scene.

On Monday afternoon a blaze which scorched one of the buildings at Kozy Kamp Motel in Allegany Grove area, was extinguished by the firemen. Firemen said the wind carried sparks from a burning rubbish pile and set the building afire.

Damage was confined to the outside of the building.

The Weather

The weather is expected to continue fair but not quite so warm today. Yesterday turned into a bright sunny day following a cool and not so bright morning. The high temperature for the 24-hour period was recorded at 75, and the low, 39 degrees, at the official weather station in Constitution Park. The mercury stood at 65 degrees at 7:30 p. m. and the humidity at 6 o'clock was 42 per cent.

Valley Street Bridge To Be Built In 1954

City To Ask Bids Soon On First Of Three New Wills Creek Spans

Construction of the $258,700 Valley Street Bridge, the first of three spans to be replaced with modern structures during the course of Flood Control work, will get under way next February, according to plans made yesterday afternoon by the Mayor and Council.

Tentative agreement was also reached, at a conference with officials of the J. E. Greiner Company, designer of the span, to proceed with plans for the Market and Baltimore Street bridges, and to start construction of the Market Street bridge as soon as the Valley Street span is opened for traffic late next year.

Plans were made at the conference to introduce a number of orders at Monday's Council meeting. These are expected to include:

An order officially accepting the final plans for the Valley Street bridge.

An order authorizing the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property to advertise for bids for the Valley Street bridge.

Authorization to the Greiner Company to complete final plans and specifications for the Market and Baltimore Street bridges.

Preliminary plans have been prepared for all three spans which will be built in connection with Wills Creek channel improvement by the Corps of Engineers.

R. A. Gilmore, project chief, and J. W. Hughen, of the Greiner Company, explained plans for the bridges yesterday at a meeting attended by Mayor Roy W. Eves and Commissioners Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, William V. Keegan and John J. Long, C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, and Thomas B. Finan, city attorney.

To Cost $258,700

The Greiner officials estimated the Valley Street Bridge will cost about $258,700, based on present-day construction costs.

Early estimates of the other spans included $172,000 for the Market Street Bridge and $198,000 for the Baltimore Street Bridge.

But Gilmore said the estimates for the latter two spans were made in 1952 and that about 15 per cent should be added to get today's cost.

The bridges will be built with funds set aside by the city and county for the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Program.

May Seek Funds

Since these funds will run short, due to increased costs, the Corps of Engineers may ask the city to advance more funds to finish the project.

When the Flood Control project was planned more than a decade ago, the $2½ millions of local funds asked included $135,000 for necessary modifications to the three Wills Creek bridges. Escalated for today's costs, the original work would cost $350,000 today.

The bridges planned by the city, however, are modern spans which have been modified to meet the needs of a greater Cumberland.

The Valley Street Bridge, for instance, will have a 34-foot roadway and a five-foot sidewalk, to replace the obsolete span built 40 years ago and badly damaged by an explosion about 10 years ago.

No Delay Foreseen

Nuzum pointed out that if the spans were not replaced, the city would face an expensive job of "gunniting" the exterior of the spans, where the concrete is badly weathered.

The Greiner work estimates for the Valley Street span call for work to get underway in February and to be completed in November.

Officials said there will be no delay in securing steel or for any other material needed for the span.

Tentative plans call for having final plans and specifications for the Market Street Bridge ready so that job could get under way as soon as the Valley Street span is opened for traffic late next fall.

Market, as Valley Street, can be done independently of the flood work in Wills Creek channel.

Street To Be Closed

Gilmore said going directly to the Market Street bridge after Valley would mean only one street would be closed at a time.

The firm's plan for letting the Valley Street Bridge job has been timed so all the work will fall in one construction year, keeping the bridge out of service for a minimum time.

The Baltimore Street Bridge, Gilmore said, should be undertaken when the channel improvement reaches that spot, and must be tied in with the replacement of the Western Maryland Railway bridge at Baltimore Street.

Keeping traffic moving during the Baltimore Street Bridge work, he estimated, would cost the city about $30,000 extra.

Tide Is Turned In Registration Rolls Of City

26 New Voters Placed On Books

Twenty-six persons were added to the voting rolls in Cumberland last month to bring total registration to the 14,492 mark.

The 26 new voters, the highest number to be added for many months, represented a net increase of only 15 voters, since the names of 11 known dead were stricken off the rolls.

The new voters included 11 white males, one colored male and 14 white women.

Thirteen other voters came in to the registration office in the basement of City Hall to make changes in address, precinct or name.

City-County Mix-up

Some of the increased city registration was attributed to confusion of citizens over county registration.

A number of those who came to City Hall to inquire why they did not receive voters registration cards, which are being issued by the county, found they were not registered in the city and promptly did so.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, city registration clerk, said the city issues cards only to newly registered voters. These cards, like those being issued by the county, do not give one the right to vote, but are evidence that one has registered.

The city's voting rolls have been dropping each month during the past year as new registrants dip below the reduction due to deaths, which have been averaging about 11 voters a month.

Approaches Bed Rock

When the city started its continuous registration system in the fall of 1951, there were 21,516 persons registered.

Revisions made while the system was set up resulted in the dropping of 6,791 names. This was countered by 1,194 new registrants, to bring city voting rolls to the 15,680 mark in the 1952 city elections.

Early this year, the rolls took another sharp dip as the names of 1,107 persons who had not voted for five years were stricken off.

Next year's primary will be held on Tuesday, June 1, and the city election will follow on June 15. New city officials will be installed early in July.

Blood Donors Give 245 Pints

Allegany County donors contributed 245 pints of blood during the two-day visit of the bloodmobile unit from Johnstown (Pa.) Regional Headquarters.

Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, recruitment chairman for the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, reported 110 pints were collected yesterday and 135 pints were donated Monday.

Local Red Cross officials pointed out that the 245 productive pints collected during the two-day November visit was 55 pints short of the 300-pint monthly quota for this area.

According to Mrs. Helmrich, only 89 donors of the 170 scheduled kept their appointments yesterday. There were an additional 56 "walk-ins" who came to the unit location at the Eagles Home, but because of rejections only 110 pints were collected from the 145 persons who visited the unit.

Salvation Army Fund Campaign Has $13,263.88

Classified Section Reports $845 Raised

The classified section of the Salvation Army fund campaign made its first report at a meeting held at the Citadel last night and with additional reports from the advance gifts committee brought the total raised to $13,263.88 following the first week of the drive.

Divided into three sections headed by captains Paul Pickens, Albert Macy and William P. Wendt, the classified group reported $845.13 raised since the kickoff dinner Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Individual returns by advance gifts committeemen added to the $10,650.75 reported last week brought the total to $12,193.75, just $1,806.25 short of the advance gifts goal of $14,000.

Many Returns Still Out

The classified group, divided into automotive, construction, public service, finance and insurance, food and drug, clothing, professional, office supply and public employment bodies fell somewhat short of its intended goal for the first week, but many of the solicitors reported most of their returns were still to come in.

The classified teams are striving for a goal of $5,000.

A duplication of figures in the first advance gifts report reduced the amount from an original $11,195.75 to $10,650.75, Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commanding officer of the Citadel said last night.

Adolf Blunk, general chairman of the drive, told the 27 persons who attended the meeting that though the report was a little under the hoped-for $14,000 the $2,388.13 returned after just a week of work was a "marvelous job by classified section in that short time."

Response Termed Good

One solicitor reported he had received very good response from most of the business establishments he visited and added he felt the drive had a good chance of success.

Rev. Seth Morrow, member of the advisory board to the Salvation Army, reported he felt the response had been "terrific."

Blunk told the group the next meeting will be held at the Citadel Friday at 7:30 p. m. for both classified and advance gifts committees.

Civil Service Exam Being Planned By Fire Department

A Civil Service examination for lieutenant and captain positions in the Cumberland Fire Department will be held within the next two weeks, according to Virgil A. Parker, fire chief.

At least five years of service are required for a fireman to be eligible to take the examination which will be given at City Hall under direction of Mrs. Leah Hafer, chairman of the Civil Service Board.

Parker last night said about 15 men now serving in the department would be eligible.

The test is being held to fill the vacancy created when Captain Robert Leo Reichert, of East Side, submitted his resignation. Reichert plans to move to Orlando, Fla.

River Flow Here During October Is Below Normal

Savage Dam Supplies Over Half Of Water

Water released from the Savage River Dam during October supplied an average of 56 per cent of the flow in the Potomac River here, according to figures released yesterday by Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge of the Cumberland office of the Geological Survey, U. S. Department of Interior.

Water released throughout the month to sustain the flow in the Potomac River caused an average increase of 44 million gallons per day in the river flow. During the first part of October, about 70 per cent of the flow was water released from Savage River Reservoir.

Beall said the mean daily flow at Cumberland was 78.6 per cent below normal. Flow during October averaged 123 cubic feet per second or 79 million gallons per day.

The river's daily flow varied between 143 cubic feet per second, 92 million gallons per day, on October 29 and 30, and 116 cubic feet per second, 75 million gallons per day, on October 7, 8, 10, 11 and 14.

The Weather Bureau reported that total precipitation at Cumberland was 0.87 inches, or 1.66 inches below the October normal. The average daily temperature was 57.8 degrees, which was 3.1 degrees above normal for the month.

Beall pointed out that under normal conditions of rainfall, the average natural runoff of the Potomac River here, except as modified by the operation of Savage River Dam, would be expected to be about 305 cubic feet per second or 52 per cent of the normal for November.

However, under adverse conditions of little or no rainfall, the natural flow would be expected to drop to about 115 cubic feet per second or 19 per cent of normal.

Low flows in particular, Beall said, are subject to augmentation by releases from Savage River Reservoir and these natural minimums are not expected to be experienced.

With Savage River Dam releases considered and with little or no rainfall, the mean flow of the Potomac River would probably only drop to about 125 cubic feet per second or 21 per cent of the November normal.

The woman said that she is devoting the entire year to her cross-country journey and averages about 25 miles a day while walking.

She plans to call on President Eisenhower in Washington, presenting him a petition asking him to work for disarmament and for the establishment of a Secretary of Peace in his cabinet. She also will visit the United Nations in New York to seek a concerted effort forworld disarmament. While here she was interviewed by a local radio station.

W. Va. Forest Fires Reported

Two more forest fires were reported in nearby West Virginia yesterday and District Forester Tilden Norris at Romney said they burned over a total of about 24 acres.

One in Mineral County, between Keyser and Piedmont, burned some 20 acres near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad right-of-way. The other burned four acres on North Mountain in Berkeley County, not far from Martinsburg.

Norris reported that these and five other district fires all are being watched but are under control. Since the hunting season was opened in West Virginia last week, the district forester said that the number and intensity of fires has increased appreciably. Many have been blamed on hunters illegally smoking squirrels out of trees.

Rep. Hyde Calls Experience Interesting, Frustrating

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, from Maryland's Sixth Congressional District, yesterday told the Cumberland Rotary Club that his first year as a freshman Congressman proved most interesting but also most frustrating.

The Congressman told the Rotarians at their luncheon meeting at Central YMCA that only about 10 to 15 per cent of his time was devoted to what he thought he was supposed to do before he was elected. He considered studying proposed legislation and helping to get it passed his primary function before he was elected.

"I found that I was an errand boy during much of the rest of the time, representing my constituents in all sorts of matters involving them and the Federal Government and some that didn't even involve the government," Rep. Hyde stated. "I know that these duties must be filled by any Congressman who hopes to get re-elected," he added.

After his election, the 44-year-old Congressman said, the first thing he did was to consult with his predecessor, now Senator J. Glenn Beall. Then, he got himself a good secretary, Miss Ann Smith, who had served three other Congressmen in similar capacities.

Got Desired Appointment

"Miss Smith's value was proved when it came to getting office space," Hyde told the Rotarians. "There are only 433 offices for the 435 Congressmen. That means that all freshmen Congressmen had to draw to get priority for their offices. Miss Smith, acting in my behalf, drew No. 4," Hyde explained.

The new Congressman, who comes from Montgomery County, said that he then found himself in the midst of a great battle for choice committee assignments.

"As an attorney I wanted to serve on the judiciary committee and with the assistance of mutual friends who knew some of the Republican leaders in the House of Representatives I managed to get the appointment," Hyde continued.

Because of the proximity of his district to Washington, the Congressman also found it expedient for him to serve on the district committee.

There was no class on learning the ropes for new Congressmen. All freshmen Congressmen did form an "83rd Club," which met monthly. Appropriately, the first speaker before this club was the House parliamentarian.

Committees Wield Power

Rep. Hyde also told his listeners that the major work in Congress is done in committees and that what takes place on the floor of the House is primarily "window dressing." He also found it wise to

Ridgeley Legion Decides Against Changing Name

A majority vote of members of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion of Ridgeley, last night defeated a resolution to rename the post in honor of William E. Shuck Jr. a 26-year-old Ridgeley Marine sergeant killed in Korea, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for heroism.

The resolution was turned down on a vote of 15 to 12 on the grounds the renaming the Legion post might create ill feeling among the families of 12 other Ridgeley service men who died in World War II.

At the same time, however, Legion members passed a motion to erect a plaque at Ridgeley High School in memorial to S Sgt. Shuck. The plaque, to be made in bronze or brass, will be inscribed with the words of the official citation which accompanied presentation of the nation's highest award to Shuck's wife, Mrs. William E. Shuck Jr., of Waukegan, Ill., September 9.

Ridgeley Legionnaires also voted to set up a citizenship award to be given to a student of each graduating class at Ridgeley High School in memory of Sgt. Shuck. Selection of the award winner will be carried out by the school faculty and a committee from the Legion.

The sportsmanship award, given annually by the Ridgeley post to a school student, will now be given as a memorial to the dead of World War II. This motion was also passed last night.

Post officers pointed out that Shuck was the only Ridgeley man to die in the Korean War. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shuck Sr., 44 Carpenter Avenue, Ridgeley.

Sgt. Shuck was killed July 3, 1952 while aiding other wounded Marines in combat in Korea. In the words of the official citation, "He gallantly gave his life for his country."

Early Morning Fire Destroys Shephard Home

Cresaptown Family Escapes Blaze Unhurt

An early morning blaze which apparently started in the chimney destroyed the 75-year-old residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dewey Shephard, near Cresaptown, yesterday.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Shephard and three children who live at home were able to escape without injury but the family was unable to save its belongings before the fast-spreading flames consumed the building.

Volunteer firemen from Cresaptown and LaVale answered the 7:20 a. m. alarm but were unable to bring the fire under control because of lack of water from Warrior Run, a nearby creek which was almost dry.

Pumpers from five trucks poured some water on the flames, firemen said, and water was brought to the scene in tank trucks but too late to save the six-room, two-story frame house.

The Shephard home was a landmark in the Cresaptown area and was located near the former Gaither quarry off Winchester Road about a half-mile from Cresaptown.

Father Rescues Son

Mrs. Shephard had arisen to prepare breakfast for the family, authorities said, and had returned upstairs to awaken her husband, their twin daughters, Doris and Dorothy, 11, and son Dickie, 13. Shephard discovered smoke pouring through the bedroom floor from below when he entered Dickie's room. Shephard returned to the boy's room to awaken him, while the mother and daughters hurried downstairs. The father picked up his drowsy son and carried him down the stairway to the outside through rooms rapidly filling with smoke.

Mrs. Shephard sent one of the children to the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Metz, who live about 200 yards from the Shephards, to give the alarm. The Metzes called the fire company immediately.

Children Attend School

When firemen arrived a few minutes later, smoke already was billowing from around the rooftop. Extreme heat inside the building made it impossible for firemen to remove more than a few items from the porch, including the washing machine.

Lack of sufficient water kept firemen virtually helpless and the fire broke through to gut the building within an hour. When the fire finally was extinguished only two badly charred walls of the kitchen remained standing.

Despite the misfortune which struck so suddenly, the three Shephard children, who all attend school in Cresaptown, attended classes for the day while their parents made preparations to move in with another daughter, Mrs. Curtis Cox, Cresaptown.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in an outside chimney which has both cooking and heating stoves attached.

The Shephards said the house was insured. No official estimate of the damage was made.

LaVale Firemen Answer 3 Calls

LaVale volunteer firemen have been kept busy the past two days.

The worst of three fires they fought occurred early yesterday morning at Cresaptown, when they assisted firemen of that community in combatting a blaze which destroyed the six-room home of the Louis D. Shephard family.

After returning from that fire the volunteers checked a blaze near the Tri-State Roofing Company warehouse in LaVale. The quick action of the firemen kept the fire from spreading to a field and threatening homes in that section.

Someone was reported burning trash and as the fire got out of control a pile of discarded tar and shingles ignited near the warehouse. Firemen said 500 feet of hose was used in combatting the flames. Both trucks of LaVale fire company and 10 volunteers went to the scene.

On Monday afternoon a blaze which scorched one of the buildings at Kozy Kamp Motel in Allegany Grove area, was extinguished by the firemen. Firemen said the wind carried sparks from a burning rubbish pile and set the building afire.

The Weather

The weather is expected to continue fair but not quite so warm today. Yesterday turned into a bright sunny day following a cool and not so bright morning. The high temperature for the 24-hour period was recorded at 75, and the low, 39 degrees, at the official weather station in Constitution Park. The mercury stood at 65 degrees at 7:30 p. m. and the humidity at 6 o'clock was 42 per cent.

Chanuko, Feast Of Lights, To Be Marked By Jews Of Cumberland During December

Chanuko, the Feast of Lights, will be observed by Jews of Cumberland December 2 through December 9.

The feast will begin at sunset December 1.

Chanuko, which means dedication, goes back more than 2,100 years when Judea was under the dominion of a Syrian monarch named Antiochus, who sought to coerce the Jews into the worship of idols.

Led by the famed Maccabeans, the Jews resisted and, after years of guerilla warfare, routed the enemy and rededicated the temple in Jerusalem which had been desecrated by the pagans.

A special party for children of Beth Jacob Congregation will be observed on December 6, according to Rabbi Joseph Schimelman. Refreshments will be served by the Women's League and a program of entertainment will be held.

B'er Chayim Congregation as yet has not completed plans for observance of the feast.

The story of Chanuko is recounted in the Books of the Maccabees, which form part of the post-Biblical collection of semi-sacred literature known as the Apocrypha.

A gift-giving holiday, Chanuko is celebrated for eight days. In synagogues and homes special prayers and hymns touching upon freedom of worship are sung. The chief ritual connected with the holiday is the kindling of the lights in a special candelabrum, or menorah.

Each night an additional candle is lighted to symbolize growing support for the cause of religious liberty.
